SIX JAPANESE WARSHIPS BELIEVED SUNK AS U. S. WINS SPECTACULAR SEA VICTORY

Woman Power Here Is To Be Surveyed By WACS, Wardens

(Picture on Page 18.)

As of today, Atlanta's women are in the limelight. Twelve WACS (and that's only the advance guard—25 more are to follow), two Army sergeants, and some 6,000 Greater Atlanta air raid wardens are joining forces to "cherchez les femmes."

Specifically, the Army and Civilian Defense are getting together to find out just what is Atlanta's woman power rating—and questionnaires will be distributed, beginning today, to every woman between the ages of 19 and 50 in the city proper, East Point, College Park, Druid Hills, Hapeville, Buckhead, Lakewood Heights, Cascade Heights, Decatur—every nook and cranny.

How many such women are there? What education do they have? What talents? What skills? What business experience—These are the questions printed on the little white slips the air raid wardens will take to every door.

WAC Lieutenant Elsye B. Jackson, of Charlotte, N. C., officer in charge of the special WAC contingent that has been brought to Atlanta to assist in this survey, which is the second conducted in this service command (Birmingham was first), said yesterday the results obtained will be forwarded to the War Department in Washington for use as it sees fit. She added that the WAC has been given permission to present its story to outstanding women who are discovered as result of the survey.

"Unless the city's air raid wardens receive the whole-hearted co-operation of the women of Atlanta in conducting this survey, the results cannot be considered authentic and the whole purpose of their work will be defeated," she pointed out.

Labeling the survey the largest nation-wide assignment yet given to the WAC, Lieutenant Jackson said that the WAC survey workers will remain in Atlanta for two weeks, then move to Charlotte, N. C., for the third stop in the talent-scouting tour of this service command, which includes seven states—Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee, and North and South Carolina.

The survey is being conducted simultaneously within the eight other service commands, and War Department officials have estimated that the work, including the tabulation of the results, will require between two and three weeks in each city.

George M. Phillips, OCD head for the metropolitan area, estimated the distribution of the survey sheets to air raid wardens will be completed today and the actual job of having Atlanta women answer the questionnaires begins immediately.

In addition to distributing the questionnaires, the air raid wardens will collect them after they have been answered and turn them over to WAC workers who will sort them according to each woman's age and abilities.

The two Army sergeants assisting with the WAC work are Staff Sergeant William P. Carpenter Jr., of Atlanta, and Sergeant William M. Stewart, of Montgomery, Ala.

30 Fortresses Shoot Down 41 Nazi Attackers

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 6.—(AP)—Allied planes struck hard yesterday at six towns in Sicily and a seventh in Sardinia in their pre-invasion campaign to gain air supremacy in the Mediterranean, shooting down 36 enemy aircraft for a two-day total of 101.

Thirty Flying Fortresses, raiding Gerbini in Sicily, were jumped by 100 German planes and when the battle was over, 41 of the enemy and three of the four-engined U. S. bombers lay in smoking ruins. It was one of the greatest victories scored by the Fortresses. One gunner made seven kills to establish what is probably an individual record for a foray's shooting. The sharpshooter was Sergeant Benjamin Warmer III, of San Francisco.

Other Sicilian targets were Licata, Marsala, Sciacca, Catania and Messina and the objective in Sardinia was the air base of Villacidro.

A dozen Allied planes in all were lost.

The attackers flew against the Italian outposts from bases in French Africa, Malta and the Middle East and once again the Allied command pointed up the increased enemy opposition by calling it "vigorous."

The hardest fight was over Gerbini, where the German tried everything, including suicide tactics, to block the Fortresses. The Americans fought through for 15 minutes to lay their explosives on the main and subsidiary airfields where additional grounded planes were destroyed.

Sergeant Warmer said at his home base: "I think we are quite capable of handling them the same way every mission if it becomes necessary. But I don't think they can stand it. In fact, I doubt if they ever had a worse beating than they received today."

Thirty of his buddies were lost in the three destroyed bombers. One exploded during its bomb run and caught fire; a second went down in flames; the third was last seen heading toward the sea trailing smoke.

Reconnaissance photographs showed that the other 27 did their work well, covering the target area throughout and leaving many parked planes afire.

Zimbalist, 54, Is Married To Edward Bok Widow

ROCKPORT, Me., July 6.—(AP) Mrs. Mary Louise Curtis Bok, daughter of the late Philadelphia publisher, Cyrus H. K. Curtis and widow of Edward W. Bok, Pulitzer prize winner, today became the wife of Efrem Zimbalist, Russian-born violinist and composer, at Lyndonwood, the Curtis summer home here.

Zimbalist, 54, is 12 years younger than his bride. He formerly was married to Alma Gluck, late concert and operatic singer.

Heat Wave To Stay Here, Says Forecaster

Four Georgians Held Prisoner; One Wounded

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The War Department made public today the name of 218 United States soldiers wounded in action in the Aleutian, European, Middle Eastern, North African, Pacific and Southwest Pacific areas, and 264 soldiers who are held as prisoners of war by the enemy: 136 by Italy and 128 by Japan.

The Navy also announced 26 casualties, including four dead, two missing, and 20 men previously listed as missing who now are reported dead. Only southeastern casualties are two from Alabama.

Combined southeastern casualties include:

China's Northwest Her Greatest Hope

"One World," by Wendell L. Willkie, is breaking all sales records as a book and more copies have already been sold than any book in history over a similar period of time. The Constitution is proud to present to its readers this version of "One World" carefully condensed into ten installments from the original book of 60,000 words, to be followed by a new and exclusive article by Willkie as the final installment.

CHAPTER SEVEN.

If we are to win a true victory in this world war we must have a clear understanding of the people of the Far East.

Most Americans have come to realize that the war in Asia is no sideshow to the war in Europe.

It was because I felt deeply our new involvement with the Far East that I made up my mind to go to China.

Either we win the war in full partnership with the Chinese in Asia as with the British and the Russians and the occupied nations in Europe, or we shall not really have won it.

I know there are many who believe that the way to control the future is largely through Anglo-American dominance.

They think of control of the world's strategic military and trade points as an Anglo-American trusteeship for the benefit of East and West alike, guaranteed by superior Anglo-American strength.

It's a persuasive argument. It sounds good—provided you ignore the noble expressions of the Atlantic charter which President Roosevelt—not Prime Minister Churchill—has specifically extended to the peoples of the Pacific; provided you ignore the preachments of the Four Freedoms with which we have been trying to indoctrinate the world; provided you forget the thinking of about two billion people.

China is much larger than the United States, both in area and in population. It contains within its boundaries many rich resources.

On the other hand, it is not self-sufficient—and neither are we.

This fact does not disturb the Chinese or make them want to conquer the world, any more than it does us.

Self-sufficiency is a delusion of the totalitarians.

In a truly democratic world, a nation would have no more need of self-sufficiency than the state of New York has of making itself independent of the state of Pennsylvania.

I shall always be glad that I entered China, on my first visit to that country, not through what used to be called a "treaty port," but through the back door, the vast hinterland of China's northwest.

The "treaty ports" on the Pacific—all of which are now held by the Japanese—are symbols to the modern Chinese mind of the generations in which China was regarded by western nations as a large but primitive country to be converted, exploited, or laughed at.

Shanghai, Hongkong, and Canton may be beautiful cities; but

House Refers Latest Action To Committee

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—In a tumultuous session, the senate revolted afresh against the administration's price "rollback" program today and voted 36 to 28 to ban any subsidies whatsoever to lower retail food prices.

Only last week President Roosevelt had vetoed a measure including a similar ban on the grounds that it was "an inflation bill, a high-cost-of-living bill, a food shortage bill."

As was the first, the new ban was written into a measure to extend the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation, important administration farm agency. After the President's veto, which was sustained, the house had passed a simple resolution continuing the CCC as it now operates until January 1 and increasing by $350,000,000 its present borrowing authority of $2,650,000,000.

When the resolution got back to the house today with the senate's new subsidy ban attached, Representative Cannon, Democrat, Missouri, sought an immediate vote on the question of approving the senate amendment, but the house sent it to a conference committee. This committee, composed jointly of senators and representatives, is charged with working out a compromise.

The senate attached the prohibition against subsidies to the resolution after a series of maneuvers in which it repeatedly reversed itself and after hearing an impassioned plea from Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, that it reject the whole idea of subsidies.

"The subsidization of consumers has been tried since the days of ancient Rome and has resulted invariably in nothing but destruction of the political institutions of the country that tried it," George shouted.

"What is being done here is proposing that we put off the payment of our grocery bill until next year, then have Mr. Morgenthau pay part of it out of the United States Treasury."

In a series of votes, the senate successively:

Approved, 32 to 31, an authorization for the administration to spend $525,000,000 in the next six months to keep retail food prices down.

Reconsidered this provision and threw it out 33 to 31.

Voted, 36 to 29, to kill a resolu-

American Cruiser Lost; Toll of Foe's Air Power Is Rising

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

A spectacular American naval success in the Kula gulf area of the central Solomons was announced by Allied headquarters in Australia early today in a communique which told of the probable sinking of six Japanese warships and the damaging of four more at a cost of one United States cruiser.

A hint of the extent of the Pacific naval victory had been dropped somewhat earlier by Secretary of the Navy Knox, who told shipyard workers at Bremerton, Wash., that "the Japs have taken another damned good licking."

General Douglas MacArthur's report on latest developments in his drive to hurl the Japanese northward told of mounting Japanese air defeats with disclosure that nine enemy planes were shot down over Rendova and over the Kula gulf, while seven of 48 planes which raided Darwin also were knocked down. The Allies also lost seven in that action.

The U. S. cruiser was sunk in the battle fought the morning of July 6 in the narrow body of water between New Georgia and Kolomba Nigara in the central Solomons.

U. S. Destroyer Sunk.

The sea battle, which took place in a body of water 15 miles long and about eight miles across at its widest part, had been preceded by the appearance on the night of July 4 and in the predawn of July 5 of American warships which bombarded Bairoko anchorage on New Georgia, the point through which the enemy's menaced air base of Munda is supplied.

During the bombardment the United States destroyer Strong was sunk.

During the landings on Rendova island, the troopship, McCawley was sunk by combined Japanese air and submarine action after it had discharged its troops.

Today's continuing air actions, in which the Japanese recognized the growing menace to their air bases in the north Solomons by persistently challenging American control of the skies, was foreseen in earlier reports from South Pacific headquarters (in which area the Solomons is located). Spokesmen at headquarters there said the Japanese would be forced to send over more and more of their planes.

166 Jap Planes Bagged.

The nine planes announced as shot down at Kula Gulf and Rendova increased to 166 the number bagged over the Solomons area since the new offensive got under way.

In the first week of an offensive extending over a 700-mile arc from the Solomons to New Guinea, these were the highlights:

1. Rendova island seized and conquered in a single day.
2. Viru Harbor, on New Georgia, conquered.
3. Vangunu island just south of New Georgia, seized and completely occupied (an announcement made Tuesday from South Pacific headquarters).
4. A beachhead established within 12 miles of the Japanese air base of Salamaua, northeastern New Guinea, at Nassau bay, toward which Australians moved from points inland to effect a junction. Salamaua now is threatened from three sides by Australian and American patrols.
5. Japan's big air fortress of Rabaul, New Britain, pounded in repeated raids which have cut down the weight of air blows with which the enemy might parry the Allied drive.
6. Drawing out of elements of the Japanese Navy with the resultant triumph in the Kula gulf.

Germans Enter 2 Soviet Towns; 13,000 Slain

By EDWARD D. BALL.

LONDON, Wednesday, July 7.—(AP)—The big German offensive against central Russia drove into two populated places near Belgorod at the southern anchor of the 165-mile front Tuesday despite terrific losses which mounted to at least 13,000 German dead in two days of fierce fighting, the Russians announced today.

In the Belgorod area the Nazi war machine renewed its attacks early in the morning and at first was hurled back to its initial position by the strong Russian fire, but later in the day "strong forces of tanks" succeeded in capturing the two unnamed villages, the Russians acknowledged, with a loss of 100 tanks at that point alone.

A special communique was issued announcing the Belgorod penetration, but it asserted that the German onslaught was held at all other points.

Nazi Losses Heavy.

"In the Belgorod direction, at a cost of heavy losses, the enemy was able to advance somewhat in some sectors," said the bulletin, recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Along the entire Orel-Kursk-Belgorod front the Russian defenders destroyed or disabled a total of 1,009 tanks in two days, 423 of them Tuesday, the bulletin declared. In addition, 111 more German planes were shot down, raising the two-day total to 314.

The 13,000 Nazis killed represented only a small part of the German casualties. The two special communiques issued in the first two days of the offensive have failed to mention casualties, and the 13,000 represents a total of Germans listed killed only in individual actions on scattered sectors.

Communique.

The regular midnight communique elaborated on the Belgorod penetration as follows:

"In the Belgorod direction the Germans renewed their attacks on Soviet positions from early morning. Our troops met the enemy with strong fire from all kinds of arms and hurled them back to their initial positions.

"In the second half of the day, bringing up strong forces of tanks, the enemy once again launched an offensive. In the fighting they lost more than 100 tanks. In one place the Hitlerites, at the cost of heavy losses, were able to capture two populated places."

On all other sectors, the communique said, the German onslaught was being held in "stubborn engagements" which left little doubt that terrific fighting was continuing.

The midnight communique added 3,000 German dead to a previously-reported total of 10,000 in the first 36 hours of the gigantic battle.

Stop Pirating Labor, Arnall Tells WMC

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

Reports of serious shortages of labor in shipyards at Savannah and Brunswick brought from Governor Arnall yesterday a flat demand that the War Man-Power Commission cease pirating workers in Georgia and moving them to the shipyards of the Pacific northwest.

The Governor's criticism of the War Man Power Commission's policies of inviting Georgia laborers to take transcontinental train rides "all expenses paid," to fill up the Kaiser shipyards in Seattle was addressed directly to Paul V. McNutt, War Man Power Commissioner, at Washington.

The Governor's telegram said: "The people of Georgia are tremendously resentful about the War Man Power Commission's pirating of shipyard labor for movement to the Pacific northwest when Georgia's shipyards at Brunswick and Savannah are in urgent need of labor. Our people are unable to understand why ship construction companies with great political influence are given a right by your agency to pirate labor from those with little or no political influence. Please direct your agency to cease advertising in Georgia for workers for Pacific northwest shipyards. Such policy as the one now in effect is devoid of any possible justice and people here are inflamed by such unfair treatment of our Georgia enterprises engaged in war work.

"ELLIS ARNALL,
"Governor of Georgia."

Wind and Lightning Damage Power Lines

Lightning and freakish winds, accompanying a heavy thunderstorm in the Atlanta area, yesterday and last night caused many interruptions of electric service, some property damage, and forced the Georgia Power Company to call out about 150 extra workers to meet service resumption demands.

Some observers characterized the storm as the worst—in respect to service interruptions—experienced in the Atlanta area in several years.

Power company officials said the interruptions were in widely scattered sections of the area and kept their workers and emergency crews busy until the early morning hours.

High winds blew down a number of large trees when they dipped out of the clouds and ripped a path through a grove in the vicinity of the 1100 block of Oak Knoll terrace, in the Lakewood area. Lightning struck the home of Page Rees, 137 Huntington road, causing some fire damage.

The power company reported interruptions of service were given attention in the Cascade Heights, S. W., Lakewood avenue, S. E., and Hemphill avenue, N. W., sections of Atlanta, among others.

Lightning knocked out the company's powerful Norcross transmission station, interrupting service along that line at Tucker, the Plantation Pipe Lines pumping station, near Doraville; the DeKalb waterworks, Sandy Springs, and caused trouble at Lawson General hospital. Service to these points was resumed when a feeder line from Gainesville was connected.

WPB Orders New Cut In Use of Newsprint

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The War Production Board ordered new cuts today in newsprint use for the present quarter, ranging up to 5 per cent for bigger newspapers, and warned that it would take compliance action against any publisher failing to abide by the new quota.

"The necessity for economy in the use of print paper becomes more pressing with each passing week," said H. M. Bitner, director of WPB's printing and publishing division. The new cut, he said, follows the pattern recommended June 17 by the newspaper industry advisory committee.

Any requests for additional supplies of paper to relieve hardship on a publisher must be filed by July 15, Bitner said.

"Any usage of paper over the quota, until an exception is granted, will be at the applicant's risk," he added.

"Failure of newspaper publishers to live within the allowed usage in any quarter necessitates reference of all such cases to the WPB compliance division."

Not Acceptable Reasons.

The agency stated it would not recommend granting extra paper for publication of special editions, nor would it grant additional tonnage to meet circulation gains achieved through prize contests or similar promotional campaigns.

Under the original print paper curtailment order which went into effect January 1, newspapers were limited in each quarter to 100 per cent of the tonnage of paper used in printing their net paid circulation in the same quarter of 1941, plus three per cent for spoilage.

It was hoped to reduce consumption about ten per cent by eliminating the printing of extra copies, unpaid circulation, and similar economies. This reduction was not accomplished, however, officials said, and a further cut was declared necessary.

The new curtailment does not apply to the first 25 tons of newsprint for newspapers which use less than 500 tons a quarter.

Curtailment Rates.

The curtailment ranges from 2.5 per cent for newspapers using up to 50 tons a quarter to five per cent for newspapers using 500 tons or more a quarter.

The new amendment did not include the curtailment of inventories which was recommended by the advisory committee, but an Office of Price Administration spokesman said this could be expected within a short time. Newspapers at present are allowed to maintain a 75-day supply of print paper. Under the recommendation, this would be reduced to a 50-day supply in all parts of the country except the area west of the Rocky mountains and in the south.

Willkie's One World

to the Chinese even their names are reminders of the days when, as Sun Yet-sen, founder of the Chinese republic, put it:

"The rest of mankind is the carving knife and the serving dish, while we are the fish and the meat."

Instead, my first stop in China was at Tihwa, called by the Russians Urumchi, capital city of the province of Sinkiang, or Chinese Eastern Turkestan. Our Liberator had flown from Tashkent in Siberia in a single day.

Sinkiang (New Dominion) is twice as big as France. It has something less than 5,000,000 inhabitants. It is the largest province of China and may conceivably be the richest.

Explosive.

Sinkiang is one of the areas in the world where politics and geography combine to make a kind of explosive amalgam full of meaning to those who are curious about what is going to happen to the world.

Geography leans Sinkiang toward Russia. The Soviet Turk-Sib railroad runs a few miles from its frontier.

All the consumers' goods we saw in Tihwa came from Russia; the cars we rode in were Russian; the army we saw drove Russian tanks. But politics leans the province back toward China.

I dined with Governor Sheng in Tihwa, and the Soviet consul general dined with us.

We toasted each other and the three countries from which we came in Russian vodka and in Chinese rice wine, and there was no hint of anything but cordial friendship between Russia and China.

But the next morning I had a private breakfast, at his suggestion, with the Chinese governor, who once was sympathetic with the communists and of late has shifted his allegiance to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The stories Governor Sheng told me of murder, intrigue, espionage, and counter-espionage sounded like a dime thriller and would have been incredible to an American were it not for the evidence all about of suspicion and mystery.

Obviously, one of our problems, when the war is over, will be to help China and Russia work out in co-operation the common problems they face in Turkestan, near the roof of the world in Asia.

And that is another reason why I urge and urge again the necessity of bringing China and Russia, the United States and Great Britain, in common conference today to learn to work with each other while they fight.

For if they do not there is enough explosive powder in central Asia to blow the lid off the world again when the present fighting is over.

The five-hour flight from Tihwa to Lanchow, capital of Kansu province, was one of the most remarkable laps of our flight around the world.

Among the men who flew with our party over this rich but undeveloped land and told me of its potentialities was Dr. Hollington (Holly) V. Tong, China's vice minister of information. American-educated and "one of the generalissimo's keenest instruments, as faithful as a dog and as clean as a dog's tooth," as he was described to me.

Irrigation projects, power plants, fertile fields and pastures, whole cities could be built in this region, and all the country lacked to build them, it seemed to me, was people.

I don't know how often I thought of this flight during the weeks I was in China. In the first place, the emptiness of this northwestern region makes a striking contrast with the crowded, teeming lands of southern China.

In the second place, every Chinese leader I talked to spoke of the northwest and the present struggle to open its riches with transport, co-operatives, and modern science, as China's most fundamental hope in the war against Japan and in the great task of building a strong, modern nation which will follow the peace.

Only Land Route.

In Lanchow I saw the terminal of the Russian highway, the one land route into modern China.

The Chinese end of the road, where there is neither roadbed nor gasoline nor trucks, fits much more appropriately the historical traditions of the highway.

Instead of trucks, the Chinese use carts, camels, and coolies.

Soviet freight, which takes four days from the frontier to the Kansu border, takes 70 more days to reach Lanchow.

And still it has not reached a railhead, but must travel days and days farther by the most primitive transport imaginable before it debouches into the heavily populated parts of China where it is so desperately needed.

Outside Lanchow, between the airport and the city, we saw a Chinese caravan being formed for the long haul back toward Russia made up of small, two-wheeled mule carts, rubber-tired—strangely, to my rubber-conscious eyes—and piled high with wool and salt and tea.

Coolies and Mules.

The mules were standing patiently in a row which must have been some miles long, the coolies next to them, waiting for the order to start.

They would be plodding westward for more than two months, I was told, before they could exchange their cargo for the gasoline, airplane parts, engines, and ammunition which hte Soviet Union is still shipping to China, largely on credits which have now reached a staggering total.

The road is a shoestring being used to support an enormous weight. If the shoestring breaks, we shall all be losers.

Except for the American airplanes which fly in from India over the Himalayas, and the smuggling which seeps through the entire front against Japan, it is China's only link with the world outside.

Georgia Contracts Are Awarded

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The award of the following contracts, all between $100,000 and $500,000, was announced today by the War Department (contractors, job, its locality and supervising Army engineers):

Wright Contracting Co., Columbus, Ga., grading, draining and paving, Dougherty county, Ga.; Savannah engineers.

Smith, Yetter & Griffin, Palm Beach, Fla., additional facilities, Houston county, Ga.; Savannah engineers.

Ellijay's Draft Board Members Quit in Body

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

ELLIJAY, Ga., July 6.—Following a routine examination of the local selective service office, which resulted in a highly favorable report, every member of the board has tendered his resignation. By request they will not become effective until July 12 when an official of the state organization will visit the office.

Cliff Owen, a member of the board, in an editorial in his Times-Courier, last week stated that the job was a thankless one and that he thought the honors attached should be divided among the citizens.

Air Expansion Plan Includes Georgia Link

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—American Air Lines, Inc., announced today it had applied to the Civil Aeronautics Board for an extension of its routes by about 50 per cent as "the lead-off in the contemplated tremendous expansion of air transport after the war."

A. N. Kemp, air line president, said that through new routes, extensions of present schedules and the inclusion of additional cities American would add 10 states and 35 cities to its present schedules which now include 22 states and 52 cities.

At the start of the war, Kemp continued, American had 86 planes in service, but said one-half had been turned over to the government for military purposes.

One application is for a route from Detroit to Miami with stops between which would provide the first direct air service from Ohio cities such as Toledo and Columbus to Florida and the southeast.

The route would include Toledo, Columbus, Charleston, W. Va.; Roanoke, Va.; Winston-Salem and Charlotte, N. C.; Columbia, S. C.; Savannah, Ga., and Jacksonville, Florida.

GEORGIA AIRMAN HURT.

KINGMAN, Ariz., July 6.—(AP) Sergeant J. Z. Jones, of Pembroke, Ga., was among those seriously injured yesterday when a twin-engined training plane crashed on a runway at Kingman Army Air Forces training field, killing the co-pilot and injuring nine airmen.

Arnall Pushes Campaign for More Gasoline

Urges Georgia, Florida To Continue Demands for 'Rightful Share.'

Georgia's respect for the entire war rationing program rests solely on whether Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies gives this state its rightful share of gasoline, Governor Arnall said yesterday.

The Governor urged Georgians and Floridans to demand more gasoline, after learning that a high-ranking federal official had asked Davies to remove these two states from the acute shortage area.

The recommended classification would give Georgia and Florida four gallons of gasoline per week for "A" card drivers, as compared with one and one-half gallons now received.

Governor Arnall asked Georgians to wire their congressmen urging them to obtain more gasoline for this state. He took the initiative himself by sending wires to the representatives and senators, after sending a telegram to Davies.

Governor Arnall pinned responsibility for Georgia's respect of the entire rationing program directly on Davies, stating that whether Georgia gets her fair share of gasoline rests purely with this official.

J. M. Brown, 75, Of Riverside, Dies

J. M. Brown, 75, of 2609 Church street, Riverside, Ga., died yesterday at the residence. He was a carpenter.

Survivors include four daughters, Mrs. W. R. Dutton, Mrs. J. F. Barber, Mrs. W. N. Cook, Miss Beatrice Brown; three sons, J. W., Albert and J. R. Brown; three sisters, Mrs. Millie Bennett, Mrs. Tavie Arnold and Miss Maggie Brown; three brothers, George, Judson and Earnest Brown; 15 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow, at Bethel Baptist church. Burial will be in the churchyard.

WMC Arouses Arnall

He found that one shipyard needed 400 men immediately, while another will need 2,500 men beginning next week.

At the same time, advertisements appearing in Atlanta newspapers are urging possible shipyard workers, "no experience necessary," to sign up with the United States Employment Service, under supervision of the War Man Power Commission, and be moved, with no expense to the worker, across the continent immediately—all expenses paid.

Governor Arnall is anxious to know why the advertisements fail to urge the unemployed labor to start work immediately in the shipyards at Savannah or Brunswick.

War Man Power officials have explained that the advertisements are paid for by the shipbuilders.

WMC Sponsors Ad.

The Manpower Commission signs and sponsors the advertisements although the ads are paid for by the Kaiser shipbuilders.

"Why does the WMC do that?" the question has been.

The War Manpower Commission answers that question:

"Because the Kaiser people are willing to pay for the ads here and we can't prevent them. All we can do is supervise their employment and see that no one leaves who is at work in an essential war industry."

Then, the question has been:

"Why aren't the Brunswick and Savannah shipbuilders right here in Georgia—who are badly in need of workers—encouraged to advertise in the Atlanta and Macon newspapers?"

The only answer is a shrug.

So Governor Arnall classed in his telegram, "the Kaiser people," as they are referred to by the Manpower Commission, as "ship construction companies with great influence."

Labor Crisis Nears.

The advertisements are continuing in this area even though Dr. B. F. Ashe, regional director of the War Manpower Commission, last Saturday announced a growing shortage of labor in the Atlanta area where the Bell bomber plant is hiring workers right now at the rate of 1,000 a month—a figure that will be stepped up so shortly within the next few months that Atlanta will be listed as a Class A Labor Zone, which means there are not enough workers to handle the local war jobs and that everyone must work 48 hours a week.

Eight of those 48 hours will be worked on a basis of time and a half for overtime.

The advertisements, which appear over the signature of the War Man Power Commission, urge that anyone "with no previous experience" may apply for a shipyard job and be taken across the country, jamming the railroad trains, already struggling under unprecedented passenger traffic.

"If a person who has no experience can be hired to work in a shipyard, why can't a person with previous experience be hired to work in a bomber plant, which is a business just now starting from scratch—a business in which no one has had any previous experience, from the designers of the planes on down," the WMC is asked.

Free Press.

The WMC answer is that this is a free country with a free press and if "the Kaiser people" want to advertise in Atlanta no one can stop them.

So, the Governor has appealed to Paul McNutt himself.

"I want to see that our own shipbuilders right here on the coast of Georgia get a fair break," the Governor said yesterday.

"Why should they be behind with their work while the big shipyards with lots of influence come all the way down here to Georgia and urge everyone to leave home?"

The Governor said:

"Incoherency is impeding our war effort. We should stop hauling laborers back and forth across the country from one ocean to another, when each one of them is badly needed at home."

East To Be Allowed Limited Vacation Gas

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Motorists in the northeastern gasoline shortage area soon will be able to use their cars for vacation travel, but the ban remains on all other nonessential driving, even a trip with the family to a near-by picnic grove.

Beginning July 15, the OPA announced, motorists may use their "A" rations for one round trip to a summer home or other vacation place, provided other transportation is inadequate and provided they comply with various regulations.

In all other respects, Price Administrator Brown said, the present ban on nonessential driving will remain in full effect.

In another announcement today, OPA said that issuance of special gasoline rations for travel to victory gardens will be discontinued after July 12. Rations already issued for this purpose may be used as long as valid, and motorists may continue to use their "A" books for short trips to their gardens.

The amendment to rationing regulations to permit vacation travel was issued simultaneously with the publication of a new book by Secretary of the Interior Ickes entitled "Fightin' Oil."

Ickes said petroleum stocks on the Atlantic seaboard are at an all-time low and that "our military future is not adequately protected."

Shortly after it issued the vacation travel order, OPA said "A" rations can be used only in the absence of "adequate alternative transportation," including trains or buses.

New Trial Denied In Stroup Case

A motion for a new trial for William B. Stroup, convicted in May of criminally assaulting a 13-year-old girl and sentenced to the electric chair, was overruled yesterday by Judge Virlyn B. Moore, of Fulton superior court.

According to the evidence on which he was convicted, Stroup kidnaped the child as she returned home from a store where she had been sent for a spool of thread and then assaulted her.

Stroup has a long record of arrests for robbery, larcenies of automobiles and other crimes, which began in 1931 in Salt Lake City.

Store Up Spud Supply Georgia Told

Agricultural Commissioner Tom Linder yesterday appealed to housewives to purchase large supplies of Irish potatoes now and can them for their next winter's supply.

In sudden contrast to the potato shortage a few weeks ago, the state markets over Georgia are filled with Irish potatoes as the crop flows to market.

"Housewives should buy now, while the price is low, and put up this valuable food supply for next winter," the commissioner said. "Potatoes are selling on the Atlanta market at $2.50 to $2.75 per hundred pounds. If the people will lay away such staple foods as potatoes, syrup, corn meal, flour and lard, they won't starve."

WACS Badly Needed For Overseas Duty

By ERNIE PYLE.
(First of Five Articles on the WACS.)

NORTH AFRICA.—(By Wireless)—This is a short series about the WACS in Africa. There aren't so very many of them over here so far. The ones who are here are a sort of test tube, but they are working out so well that many others undoubtedly will be coming along to reinforce them.

There is a distressing shortage of WACs. There are only 60,000 of them altogether, and I'm told the Air Forces alone would like to have 300,000. If you happen to have 240,000 potential WACs around the house, would you please let us know?

There are fewer than 300 WACs in North Africa. All of them live in a big headquarters city. They are not dodging bullets, not living in foxholes, not blood-and-gutsing around at any front, as some of the more romantic pieces written about them seem to intimate. They are, in fact, living not very differently from what they would in service at home.

Five on Special Duty.

The first WACs over here were five captains, on very special confidential work, who arrived last December after being torpedoed on the way. These five, by the nature of their work, are separate from the regular WAC unit and live together in a villa. Since then four other WAC officers have come for similar duty.

An example is Lieutenant Sarah Bagby, who is confidential secretary to Lieutenant General "Tooey" Spaatz. Lieutenant Bagby, incidentally, is the 11th member of her family to go into uniform.

Now to the bulk of the WACs. There is one full company here—274 women, including five officers. They arrived January 26. They aren't scattered around Africa; they are all concentrated in one city.

Half of them live in a requisitioned five-story office building. Streetcars, buses and Army vehicles flow past their door constantly. From their rooftop you look right down upon the city and its harbor—it's one of the most striking views I ever saw.

Live in Convent.

The other half live in a convent just on the edge of the city. They have taken over about half of the convent, and the girls live in huge rooms little different from college dormitories. Their quarters surround a crushed-stone patio with an ancient well in the middle. It all looks like a picture out of the Middle Ages. It's one of the most peaceful places I have ever seen.

There are five women officers to run the company—two captains and three lieutenants. One of the five is a doctor. The officers call the girls either by their rank or by their last name only. First names are never used. Despite these formalities there seems to be a gentler exchange of personalities between WAC officers and girls than between officers and men in the Army.

Some WAC officers are grim and severe. One of these might dismiss a WAC from her presence with a stiff and chilling "That's all, Holmes," while another officer would perform the same mission by saying, "Get the hell out of here, Holmes, you rat," in a manner that would send the girl off singing to herself for an hour.

Their Conduct Good.

One very fine officer I know indulges in morale-building horseplay that would probably shock the articles of war right out of their covers—such as returning an extremely snappy salute with a snappier one that resembles a baseball pitcher's windup.

The WACs have conducted themselves beautifully over here. Naturally one has a sip too much of wine now and then, or stays out past hours in the moonlight, but on the whole their conduct would more than meet the approval of any fair-minded person.

The WACs, like everybody else, are subject to many rumors. This might be as good a place as any to dispel one of the vicious ones. It has been whispered about town that 25 per cent of the WACs have been sent home. That is a genuine libel. Only four WACs have been sent back, and they were older women who simply couldn't make the psychological adjustment to being so far from home.

Actually the WACs are neither prissies nor toughies, but just nice natural girls the same as they would be back home.

Duce Rattles Sword Before Party Chiefs

LONDON, July 6.—(INS)—Benito Mussolini has delivered another speech it was learned in London today—a sword rattling speech that seemed to say that the swashbuckling spirit is willing even though the flesh may fail.

"We have to distinguish between a landing, which is possible, a penetration, and finally invasion," the Duce told a gathering of his Fascist party directorate on June 24.

"If this attempt fails, the enemy has no other trump in his hand," the dictator was quoted as saying.

"If the enemy should penetrate, Available reserves will pounce upon and annihilate them to the last man."

Pointing out that there is only one course in this war for Italy to follow, Mussolini said, "I for one am convinced that we shall win with our Axis comrades or a shameful peace will be dictated to Italy which will relegate us to a fourth or fifth-ranking power."

That excerpt was quoted by the German wireless.

Admitting that there had been serious strikes, black market racketeering and necessities for purges in Italy, the Duce said "even after the purges the Fascist party remains the party of the masses."

"It is natural that in a nation of 46,000,000 people there should be thousands or even hundreds of thousands who for personal or weak nerve reasons are indifferent and full of fear," he continued. "In addition to those who form the real opposition."

Delta Handles More Business In Half Year

With fewer airplanes, Delta Air Lines handled more passenger, air mail and air express business during the first six months of 1943 than in the same period last year, it was announced yesterday.

Air mail increased 171.9 per cent, according to R. S. Webber, general traffic manager, who reported Delta flew 572,674,922 mail pound miles (carrying one pound one mile) for the period from January 1 to June 30, 1943, compared with 210,586,229 for the first half of 1942.

Air express increased 129.3 per cent, the total for the first half of 1943 being 106,739,901 pound miles, and 47,174,444 for the same period in 1942, and the airline flew 18,593,810 revenue passenger miles (carrying one passenger one mile) to date this year, compared with 16,338,965 during the corresponding period of 1942.

The average passenger haul was 360 miles in 1943, against 291 in the previous period. The load factor (percentage of seats occupied at all times) mounted to 93.56 per cent in June, 1943, the highest system load factor in the history of Delta Air Lines.

Doster, B-17 Man, Reported Missing

Staff Sergeant J. S. Doster, of Atlanta, has been missing in the European theater of the war since May 22, his sister, Mrs. W. A. Ward, of 760 Drewry street, N. E., said yesterday she has been informed by the War Department.

The 36-year-old Atlantan was employed by Ford Motor Company here for several years prior to entering the Army Air Forces in April of 1942.

After receiving his training, he went to England with a bomber crew and at the time of the flight after which he was listed as missing, was crew chief and operator of the top turret gun of a B-17 bomber, his sister said.

Invasion Still Threatens India, Auchinleck Says

MOMBAY, India, July 6.—(AP)—General Sir Claude Auchinleck warned India today that she still faces a serious threat of invasion, but said "we are preparing to help turn the tide, preparing to help carry the war east to Japan."

The new commander in chief in India declared at a press conference that "since I was last in India a tremendous thing has happened . . . that is the appearance among us of large forces—air forces and land forces—from the United States."

Homemade Motor Plow Used By 2 Decatur Men in Garden

Take wheelbarrow wheels, a motor, a few old gadgets lying in the basement, and anything you happen to pick up at a scrap dealer's, get with your neighbor, put them all together—and you'll have a swell tractor to plow that one and a quarter acres of victory garden.

That, in a paragraph, is the formula by which two Decatur businessmen, Charles O. Long and Russell Leonard, of Glenn circle, have produced more than enough fresh vegetables for their families and have promised the surplus of this year's crop to other neighbors, it was revealed yesterday.

"Last summer we spent $12 for material for a garden," Long said, "and canned approximately $36 worth of vegetables, using a push plow. This year, we enlarged the garden, using a motor plow that we made ourselves, and plan to put up 300 cans of beans and tomatoes alone."

The two gardeners made the motor tractor during the winter months, using scrap metal around the house and picking up the rest at scrap yards.

"We grow every vegetable this year except cabbage and watermelon, which take up too much space," Long continued, "and we have gotten some grand results. Onions have been coming in since February, and we've had potatoes since April. And the beans and tomatoes are another story."

The idea of the garden began last year when the two neighbors remembered the inflation prices of food during the last war. This year, even though ceiling prices have come into being, there are still those blue ration points that insure the need of a garden.

"It's just patriotic to have a victory garden now," Long smiled.

WAVES Wanted, Recruiters Told

The main Navy recruiting problem at this time is enlisting women for service, Rear Admiral William H. Allen, United States Navy, director of naval officer procurement in the sixth and seventh naval districts, yesterday told the opening session of a two-day conference of recruiting officers here yesterday.

Admiral Allen stressed that WAVES are urgently needed to replace men now on duty at shore stations so these men may be released for active duty in combat areas.

The conference was held on the third floor of the old postoffice building. Recruiting officers from seven southeastern states are attending.

Hernandez Wins Chess Contest

Nestor Hernandez, of Tampa, Fla., defeated W. N. Woodbury, of Birmingham, Ala., in the championship match at the Southern Chess Association tournament, held at the Biltmore hotel, it was announced yesterday.

Hernandez won six games, lost none, and had two draws, while Woodbury won six, lost one, and had one draw. In third place was Martin Southern, of Knoxville, Tennessee.

Following the tournament, A. T. Henderson, of Lynchburg, Va., was re-elected president, Martin Southern was made vice president and M. H. Davis, of Atlanta, secretary and treasurer. The members voted to have next year's meeting in Knoxville.

Delinski Submits To Extradition

The Georgia Board of Prisons was notified yesterday by FIB officials that William Randolph Delinski, kidnapper of John K. Ottley, Atlanta banker, 10 years ago, had waived his right to fight extradition to Georgia from Pasco, Washington.

Delinski escaped from Tattnall prison dairy farm by walking away from his duties as a trusty August, 1942. A nationwide search by state and federal authorities ended when he was picked up by the FBI on a draft evasion charge in Pasco recently.

The FBI agreed to turn him back to the state of Georgia.

F. E. Corrigan PRO Assistant In Gulf Area

Constitution Advertising Staff Member Joins Maritime Service.

Ensign Frank E. Corrigan, formerly of The Constitution's advertising staff, has been appointed assistant regional public relations officer for the Gulf area, it was announced yesterday by Lieutenant S. H. McConnell, public relations officer for the United States Maritime Service, in Washington.

Corrigan, who left The Constitution to accept his Maritime Service commission last week, will act as assistant to Lieutenant S. C. Manning, VSMS, of New Orleans, public relations officer for the Gulf area with offices in the Peachtree Arcade building.

Before his year and a half association with The Constitution, Ensign Corrigan was with the Cadillac Motor Company here. His home is at 1420 Peachtree road.

American Fighter Pilot Killed Landing in China

A U. S. FIGHTER GROUP HEADQUARTERS IN CHINA, July 1.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Major John Lombard, 23, of Ionia, Mich., one of the most decorated fighter pilots in China and one of the youngest squadron commanders in the entire U. S. Army Air Forces, was killed at an advanced base in central China yesterday when he attempted to make an instrument landing in extremely bad weather.

The accident occurred on the eve of Lombard's 24th birthday anniversary. He was one of nine fighter pilot aces in China, with seven confirmed victories and one "probable" to his credit. He was promoted to major last June 1.

House Seeks Twelve Billions New Taxes

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee today decided to start work September 8 on legislation to obtain new and higher wartime taxes, with first emphasis on digging deeper into the pockets of persons with war-swollen incomes.

The treasury's goal is $12,000,000,000 in revenue annually above present collections.

In a special session, as a congressional recess neared, the tax-framing committee:

1. Requested the committee tax staff and the treasury to suggest alternative means of raising additional revenue, with specific instructions "to study and report on the feasibility of raising additional revenue by means of an individual excess-profits tax."

2. Agreed there would be no retroactive taxes—that the main features of the new tax bill would not become effective before January 1, 1944.

Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, said the 15 Democrats and 10 Republicans on the committee agreed to approach the problem of increasing revenues "on a nonpartisan basis"—in contrast to the recent bitter party differences over pay-as-you-go legislation.

Public hearings on the new general tax measure, increasing the present revenues—highest on record—will begin sometime in September.

The committee action came shortly after treasury officials disclosed they were studying means of applying the principle of excess-profits taxes—now levied against corporations—to persons whose incomes have been swollen because of the war. The plan probably will embody a broadening of the present system of basic income tax exemptions to include consideration of "normal" income.

Applicafion of the excess-profits principle to individuals would mean that a person who made $2,400 in peacetime and now has an income of, say, $4,800 would be taxed heavier than another person whose salary was $4,800 in peacetime and has remained constant.

Doughton told newspapermen, "we're not going to break anybody's back, but we realize we've got to have more taxes."

Georgia Flyer Decorated for Pacific Exploit

(The following story was written by Sergeant Wallace R McLain, a Marine Corps combat correspondent, and distributed by the Associated Press.)

KEARNEY MESA, Cal., July 6. (AP)—Master Technical Sergeant Thomas C. Hurst, 24, U. S. M. C., of Social Circle, Ga., twice, in as many days, found himself in the waters off Guadalcanal after shooting down enemy planes—actions which have just brought him the Air Medal.

After destroying a Jap bomber and Zero-type fighter last November 12, he had to crash land his bullet-riddled plane about a mile off Guadalcanal.

"That swim wasn't so bad," he recalled, "but two days later I spent 47 hours in the 'drink.'"

"We were intercepting an enemy fighter attack on our naval striking force, about 35 miles off the Russell islands. I unloaded a burst on a Jap float biplane and he pulled right up into me. We hit head-on. His plane blew up and I had to bail out. It took me almost two days to swim in. It was about two weeks before a plane picked me up."

His citation reads:

"On November 12, while participating in the interception of a flight of Japanese torpedo bombers attempting to destroy our surface vessels off Guadalcanal, despite heavy antiaircraft fire from our own vessels and escorting enemy fighters, he succeeded in destroying one Japanese bomber and one Zero-type fighter. Two days later, while escorting a striking force on a mission, he assisted in disorganizing a Japanese fighter attack on the striking force, and succeeded in destroying one enemy plane."

One-Third Usual Size Tags in 1944

Production of Georgia's 1944 motor vehicle license plate will get under way at Tattnall soon, Governor Arnall said yesterday, after announcing approval by the War Production Board of specifications for the new plate.

The new tag will be about one-third the size of the usual plate. The state has enough steel on hand for a two-year supply, the Governor said. The numerals will be in yellow, on a black background.

Meanwhile, Governor Arnall yesterday renewed his determination to force newcomers to Georgia to obtain Georgia license plates.

"Riding from the executive mansion to the capitol this morning, I saw 28 out-of-state tags and also 32 Georgia cars without the 1943 tags," the Governor said. "I also saw nine trucks, and only one of them had a 1943 plate. We are doubling the number of state inspectors to see that all pay the license equally, and I am going to stay on this job until it's accomplished."

Mrs. J. W. Fowler Dies in S. Carolina

Mrs. Eunice Wilson Fowler, 27, wife of J. W. Fowler, of Clinton, S. C., died Monday night at a Greenwood, S. C. hospital following a week's illness.

A native of Georgia, she had made her home in Clinton seven years where she was a member of the Calvary Baptist church.

Survivors are her husband, two sons, Larry and Malcolm Fowler; parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wilson, of Marietta, Ga.; four sisters, Mrs. Georgia Smith, of Salina, Kansas; Mrs. Mamie Martin, of Cincinnati; Mrs. Lena Wiggins, of Clinton, and Mrs. Alice Mabry, of Marietta; three brothers, Joseph Wilson, of Atlanta; Luther Wilson, of Marietta and Cy Wilson, in the armed forces in North Africa.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Calvary Baptist church. The body will be taken Thursday to the home of her parents in Marietta. Interment will follow arrival of other relatives.

Former Bowdon Police Chief's Funeral Today

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

BOWDON, July 6.—Funeral services for Benjamin Hill Brown, 73, former chief of police here for eight years, will be held at 3 p. m. Wednesday, from the Bowdon Methodist church, with the Rev. Charles Matthews and the Rev. Joe Black officiating.

He was also a member of the police force here for 11 years. At the time of his death he was bailiff of Terrell county. He died Tuesday morning at the Carroll clinic.

He is survived by his wife; four daughters, Mrs. R. C. Boatwright, of Huntsville, Ala.; Mrs. J. G. Rainwater, of Bowdon; Mrs. Roger Meeks and Miss Emerson Brown, of Carrollton; four sons, Joe Brown and H. H. Brown, of LaGrange; A. D. Brown, of Atlanta, and Quinon Brown, of Austell.

CHILDREN GIVEN SWEETS.

Fifteen hundred packages of sweets donated by the Junior Red Cross of America are being distributed to children in nurseries at Coventry, Bristol and Birmingham, England.

Putting

First Things First

Helps Long Distance

Of course we're counting on Atlanta telephone users to continue helping the war drive by not using Long Distance except when necessary, but when you do have to make a Long Distance call, please give the operator the name of the place you want just as soon as she answers.

This enables her to see at once if a circuit is available for your call. Then if a circuit is open she will take the other details of your call and start putting it through.

If a circuit is not available, she will connect you with a special operator who will take the details of your call and tell you the length of delay expected in completing it.

It will help if you will give the details of your call in this order: First, the name of the place you are calling and then the telephone number, if known, of the person or firm you want.

By giving the information in this order, you can make another important contribution toward helping speed up vital Long Distance telephone service.

TO DADDY in the Pacific a smile from Tommy Jordan and his mother

Another Fighting Dad Will See His Newborn Baby Via V-Mail

Private E. C. Jordan, formerly of Atlanta, who has been "somewhere in the South Pacific" for the past two months, is due for a pleasant surprise.

Private Jordan couldn't get away from Army duty to come home when his baby was born five months ago, and hasn't seen little Thomas Emery as yet, but Mrs. Jordan, who brought baby to The Constitution for V-mail photographing yesterday, will soon fix that.

The picture of Mrs. Jordan and Tommy will be mailed to her on a V-mail form (with room left for a message) for forwarding to daddy, courtesy of The Constitution.

Mrs. Jordan, who lives at 1006 East Point street, East Point, was but one of the many mothers with babies who've never seen their overseas-dads who took advantage of The Constitution's new service yesterday.

It's simple. Bring baby to The Constitution's military editor on the fourth floor of The Constitution building, corner Alabama and Forsyth streets, between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. The photo will be made by a Constitution staff photographer.

RAF Downs 7 Nazi Planes Over France

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—Royal Air Force fighters on sweeps over northern France and along the French shores from Dieppe to Dunkirk knocked down seven German fighter planes today, while German reports of British bomber raids on Germany last night remained unconfirmed.

The seven Nazi fighters—Focke-Wulf 190's and Messerschmitt 109's—were struck down by pilots of a Canadian and Polish wing forming a large Spitfire formation, the air ministry news service reported.

Five fell to the Poles and two to the Canadians. The commander of a Canadian squadron destroyed one Messerschmitt inland from Boulogne and then the engine of his plane cut out. He glided 30 miles back to England and landed safely at an airdrome.

The Berlin broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said enemy planes carried out "nuisance raids" over western and northern Germany during the night, but there were no immediate announcements by the British concerning any night activities over the Reich.

U. S. Will Take Over Candler Warehouse

The federal government yesterday filed petition for condemnation of the Southeastern Compress Company warehouse, at Murphy avenue and Glenn street, S. W., which has been rented by the government for the past two years for use by the War Department.

Known as Candler Warehouse, the property covers approximately 39.4 acres of land.

The same property was condemned by the government for use in World War I, according to federal officials, and later returned to the owners.

Georgian Sings Praise of Heroic Airman

VALLETTA, Malta, July 6.—(AP) Second Lieutenant William H. Shaw, of Waterloo, Iowa, blushed modestly today while a medium bomber's crew, recovering at a hospital from minor injuries, sang his praises aloud.

Shaw, his left arm wounded by a shall fragment, brought the crew safely to Malta Sunday after the ship's pilot was killed over Sicily and slumped over into Shaw's lap.

"That guy's really all right," declared Bombardier Lieutenant J. P. McLeod, of Florence, S. C., and Augusta, Ga. "We're all in good health because of him."

The plane had just completed a successful raid on the Gerbini airport when it was jumped by Messerschmitt 109's. The pilot was killed instantly and Shaw's arm nicked as 20-millimeter cannon shells slashed through the nose of the plane.

McLeod said Shaw "grabbed the wheel so quick with his good arm that we never even veered out of formation. I was hit on the chin with a bit of shell which knocked a few teeth loose. When I managed to catch my breath there was old Willie hanging on to the wheel as cool as a cucumber."

Traffic Is Relieved By Staggered Hours

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

Staggered hour effectiveness and co-operation of the public in Atlanta's transportation problems are shown graphically in a report of the third annual cordon traffic survey released yesterday by Lieutenant Marvin Thomas, of the city traffic department, showing a 38 per cent reduction in the number of automobiles entering the congested district from the 1941 count.

The checkup was made by 350 Boy Scouts stationed at 41 points in the central business section, and showed that only 58,508 cars entered and 53,630 left the city in 1943 from 6:30 a. m. until the count ended at 6:30 p. m. This compares with 93,970 cars which entered and 88,509 leaving in 1941, and with 78,918 entering and 72,209 leaving in 1942.

Interesting Aspects.

Other interesting aspects of the count showed:

1. Staggered hours have benefited street traffic conditions by spreading the peak-hour movement of automobiles in the same proportion that it has spread riding on public transportation vehicles. While automobiles carried only 34 per cent of the persons entering the section in 1943, public transportation vehicles carried 43 per cent. Fifteen per cent walked and eight per cent rode trucks. This compares with 43 per cent in cars in 1942, 33 per cent in public transportation vehicles, nine per cent in trucks and 15 per cent walking. Trolleys and buses carried 130,228 of the 304,840 persons who entered the area this year.

2. Despite the smaller number of automobiles driven downtown in 1943, the average number of riders increased only slightly—1.78 persons per car as compared to 1.7 persons in 1942 and 1.66 persons in 1941.

3. A total of 304,840 persons entered the counting area in 1943 as against 316,316 in 1942, and 316,083 in 1941. All of which adds up to the fact that citizens are co-operating in trying to reduce congestion by keeping outside the congested districts as far as possible.

4. Tire and gasoline savings by stores and other businesses are reflected in a 20 per cent reduction in the number of trucks on the streets.

5. Fifteen per cent, or 45,839 persons preferred to walk rather than brave the hazards of traffic in 1943, representing 15 per cent of the total travel.

Staggered Hours.

Staggered hours has "smoothed out automobile traffic in the rush periods," Thomas said. Two years ago, the period between 7:30 and 8 a. m. carried 22 per cent of the total volume of morning rush-hour traffic, and even now carries 19.5 per cent, but between 8:30 and 9 a. m. it has risen from 15.5 per cent to 20 per cent and between 9 and 9:30 a. m. it has risen from 12.5 per cent to 15 per cent.

Present rush-hour traffic is fairly constant for a two-hour period, whereas formerly there was a high one-hour peak.

The survey also showed that the largest number of passenger automobiles in the downtown section in the count was 9,750 as compared with 10,815 last year, and 12,597 in 1941. The peak was at 4:15 p. m. this year.

SUNBURN

You can cool the burn of sunburn with Mexsana, formerly Mexican Heat Powder. This clean, white, fragrant powder forms a coat of medicated skin protection between burned, hot-feeling irritated skin and clothing likely to chafe. Convenient, too. No grease. Nothing to mess clothes. Mexsana is a fine medicated powder, the kind often recommended by specialists for just such skin irritations. Just sprinkle Mexsana well over your sunburned skin and feel the refreshing change as it cools the burn and hot feeling. Costs little. And there's even greater savings in larger sizes. Always demand Mexsana.

Peace by '45 Pledged By Chiang Kai-shek

CHUNGKING, Wednesday, July 7.—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, marking today the sixth anniversary of China's bitter war with Japan, confidently declared that the time limit for utter defeat of the Japanese invasion armies "cannot exceed two years."

Linked with this pledge of victory by 1945, General Chiang told the Chinese people:

"On land, the Japanese invader has been mired down in the China theater with no hope of extricating himself.

"On the sea, his naval and air force is weak and losses to his warcraft and transports are particularly heavy.

"Over his 8,000-mile front there is no place which is not feeling the increased pressure of the Allied offensive."

Henceforth, he said, the Japanese could only defend a few isolated islands and once the Allies have launched a simultaneous attack on the enemy's positions, his painful experience on Attu Island in the Aleutians, where the entire Japanese garrison was wiped out, would be repeated.

"In the seventh year of our war of resistance," he said, in an anniversary message, "an offensive that will deal crushing blows to the enemy will be started in various theaters of the world and there will be an unending stream of victories."

Curfew Law Advocated by Griffin Judge

GRIFFIN, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—A curfew law clearing the streets of youngsters at 10:30 p. m. was advocated today by Judge Chester A. Byars, of the Griffin superior court circuit, who said juvenile delinquency threatens the United States with the same fate that befell France.

He told the Exchange Club juvenile delinquency had increased "more than 400 per cent" in this district during the past year and that the same was true in the rest of the country.

Parents are permitting children to "run wild" Judge Byars said "and unless something is done to halt the alarming increase of delinquency the nation will go the way of France."

The judge, who handles all juvenile cases in four counties in this circuit, said he had made frequent trips uptown "at all hours of the night" to see how many boys and girls were "walking the streets when they should be at home in bed." He said he found conditions that would "shock even the most hardened."

Cities should ban midnight picture shows, the judge declared and see that bus and train stations as well as all night restaurants are not used as meeting places for boys and girls.

Hibbs Is Promoted To Major General

CAMP BLANDING, Fla., July 6.—(AP)—Promotion of Brigadier General Louis E. Hibbs, commander of the "Blood and Fire" infantry division, to the rank of major general was announced here yesterday.

Simultaneously, Colonel Edward J. McGaw and Colonel Frederick M. Harris were promoted to rank of brigadier general.

General Hibbs was graduated from West Point in 1916 and saw service in World War I, being wounded twice. He was awarded the French croix de guerre for gallantry in action. General Hibbs also served as General Douglas MacArthur's adjutant when MacArthur was West Point commandant.

Doctor Truett Concerned For U.S. Home Life

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.
Pastor, Druid Hills Baptist Church.

"What would you say is the most important thing any Christian can ever do in this earthly life?" asked Dr. George W. Truett in the opening sentence of his sermon yesterday morning at Druid Hills Baptist church.

"Bethink you now, and make your answer to this all-important question for every loyal child of God. Perhaps I may relate the answer given this question by one of the widely known and beloved men of a former day in the life of America, Dr. Lyman Beecher, father of the illustrious Henry Ward Beecher.

"Lyman Beecher's answer grips my own soul every time I recall his words. Said he, 'The most importnt thing any Christian can ever do in this world is to lead another soul to Jesus.' I press this question upon you, my fellow preachers of the Gospel, and upon every Christian within the sound of my voice today. What is the most important thing any Christian may ever do in this earthly journey?"

Dr. Truett then read the story of Andrew, "who goeth and findeth his brother, Simon, and bringeth him to Jesus."

"Tremendous Words."

"Let us look at these tremendous words, 'And he brought him to Jesus.' Andrew put in his first work for Christ in his own home. He went and found his great brother, Simon, and bringeth him to Jesus. We may think of Andrew as a far less conspicuous man than his brother, Simon; but never must we forget that it was the quiet Andrew who went and brought the impulsive Simon to the Saviour. What if Andrew had been content to accept the salvation of the Lord, and have neglected to go and fetch his brother to Jesus?

"And by the same reasoning, what if someone had failed to tell you and you of Jesus? What if your mother had not been a Christian? What if some teacher had not given time and thought and prayer in seeking to lead you to know Him? Where would our homes be in this trying hour were it not for brothers like Andrew who can tell about Jesus, the Saviour? I repeat what I said a day or two ago here in Atlanta, that I am more concerned for our American homes today than at any time in my half century as a moral and religious teacher; and it is only by personal witness to the Saviour that our homes can be saved from Satan's snares.

Moody's Answer.

"The great Dwight L. Moody was once asked by a newspaper man, 'Mr. Moody, do you think there is any way by which the people of these vast cities may be won to the Christ you preach?' Mr Moody's answer was prompt and to the point, 'Yes, they can be won, if we go after them one by one, in that way, and in that way only.'

"And what is more to the point," said Dr. Truett, "it is Christ's own method of winning lost souls to the life everlasting. See Him yonder in that unforgettable sermon on the new birth to one man, and that man Nicodemus.

Dr. Truett will preach again at 11 a. m. today at Druid Hills Baptist church, and again tonight at the municipal auditorium, and throughout the week, closing his engagement as guest of the Druid Hills church Sunday night.

Dr. B. D. Gray will lead the prayer tonight, and the men's chorus of East Point will sing. John D. Hoffman is leading the singing, with Dr Charles A. Sheldon at the organ and Mrs. John Felder at the piano. W. H. Spratlin is in charge of the ushers. The public is invited.

Auto Use Tax Enforcement Squads on Job

With 120 deputy collectors engaged in a statewide check of automobiles, Marion H. Allen, United States collector of internal revenue yesterday warned persons driving cars not showing federal use stamps may be summoned to appear for questioning at the revenue office.

"We are enforcing the law and all automobiles must bear the stamp in a conspicuous place. Persons who have bought the stamp and fail to display it are violating the law, as are those who drive their vehicles and who have not yet bought the stamps," Allen said.

A large number of automobile owners in the Atlanta area have neglected to purchase the stamp, or display it, and summonses already have been left on a number of cars, he added. Hearings are held at the field office of the revenue department, Room 240, old post office building.

Stamps are on sale at stamp windows and at the collector's office at the regular price of $5. Conviction on a charge of violating the law will subject an offender to a fine of not more than $25 or imprisonment of 30 days, or both.

Senate in Fresh Revolt Bans All Food Subsidies

tion extending the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation from June 30 to January 1. (The subsidy provision was a part of this legislation.)

Reconsidered this decision on a voice vote.

Adopted the ban on subsidies by the vote of 36 to 28.

Approved the amended resolution on a voice vote.

Senator Danaher, Republican, Connecticut, proposed first to ban only the use of any of the CCC's funds to pay subsidies—a prohibition which would have invalidated the administration's meat and coffee price "rollbacks" which are financed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Senator Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, urged that the ban apply to all government agencies.

Tydings' Challenge.

"The administration has advocated congress changing its mind," Tydings said. "I advocate the President changing his mind. This is a policy-making body up to now."

Tydings' proposal was added to Danaher's and it was in this form that the ban was adopted.

As it finally stood, there was nothing to interfere with the CCC's using its funds for payments to stimulate production of needed crops or to prevent the RFC from subsidizing transportation costs (as is now done on movement of petroleum products to the east coast), but neither agency, nor any other, may pay subsidies simply to push down retail food costs.

When the session opened, administration leaders had been confident of getting passage of the resolution with the restriction that no more than $525,000,000 might be spent on subsidies in the remainder of the year. This restriction, proposed by Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, was approved by the Senate Banking Committee, and word circulated that it was agreeable to the administration. The meat-butter-coffee "roll back" is estimated to cost about $400,000,000 a year.

George Swings Senate.

The leaders credited George's speech with swinging the senate to the new expression against any subsidies.

George, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which with House Ways and Means Committee, has to find revenue to meet government expenditures, told his colleagues:

"We are definitely heading toward inflation. The mounting national debt, aided by subsidies, may shake faith in the American dollar—and when that time comes, you will know what inflation really means!"

Under the rollback system, he said, the Treasury will have to sell more war bonds in order to pay part of the people's food bill. Additional taxes, he asserted, will have to come for the most part out of the incomes of the persons making $3,000 a year or less, for that represents the bulk of the country's income producers.

Subsidies to encourage production are one thing, George said, and consumers' subsidies something quite different. He said he had seldom seen a course so "inexcusable and unwise' as the plan to subsidize coffee when according to the President, imports are increasing to the extent that it soon may be removed from the ration list.

Majority Leader Barkley said he had never been particularly fond of the idea of subsidies, but declared that the life of the CCC was at stake in the pending bill.

Senator McClellan, Democrat, Arkansas, who lost a son in the North African theater, told the senate he could not look returning soldiers in the eye if he supported the rollback subsidy program.

"You'll not be able to defend it a year from now, or even tomorrow," he said.

Exchange Club Names Officers For New Term

Officers of the Atlanta Exchange Club were elected and installed yesterday at a meeting of the organization at the Robert Fulton hotel.

Arthur Madison was chosen president, succeeding Lyons B. Joel. Other officers were Allan Ford, vice president, and Charles Conklin, secretary-treasurer.

New board members chosen were George Tidwell, Major R. S. Pendleton, Frank Bell and George Cotsakis. The new officers will serve six months. The installation was in charge of Henry Powell, state president.

Arnall Would Sell Gwinnett Signature

Permission to sell the signature of Button Gwinnett, one of Georgia's three signers of the Declaration of Independence, will be sought by Governor Arnall when the next general assembly convenes, he said yesterday. The signature, now held in the state treasury for safekeeping, reportedly is worth $50,000.

Through the dark of night, and the heat of day, America's plane spotters have kept their lonely watch. Theirs is a job without recompense, without glory, without even the thrill of danger—yet they have kept to their posts. But there are times, when the fog rolls in or the skies are dark, that even the keenest human eyes are not enough. Then, along our shores and about our cities, we can depend on electronic sentries to scan the skies.

America's best plane spotter is BLIND as a BAT

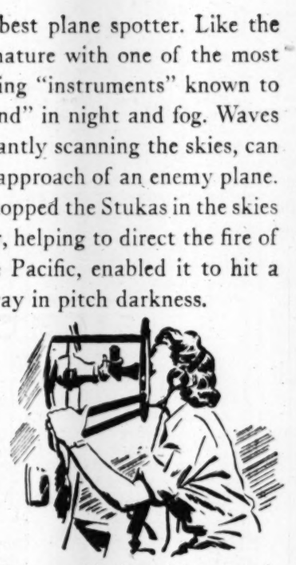
RADAR is America's best plane spotter. Like the bat, which is equipped by nature with one of the most remarkable sets of blind-flying "instruments" known to man, radar can operate "blind" in night and fog. Waves from electronic tubes, incessantly scanning the skies, can "feel" through the dark the approach of an enemy plane.

Radar, and the Spitfires, stopped the Stukas in the skies over England in 1940. Radar, helping to direct the fire of an American warship in the Pacific, enabled it to hit a Japanese warship 8 miles away in pitch darkness.



Yet radar is no more miraculous than your radio set. It is simply the application of principles discovered many years ago. Many scientists and engineers—in this country and in Britain, some working alone, some in the Army and Navy, many in college and industrial research laboratories—played a part in its development. And General Electric was one of the first and most active in this field.

This was only natural. For, when in 1940 the Navy requested G.E. to begin the manufacture of radar equipment, we had been for more than 20 years engaged in the development and manufacture of the kind of electron tubes, circuits, and apparatus that makes radio, and radar, possible. Additional manufacturing facilities were started at once. And today, General Electric is supplying this equipment in quantity for the Army and the Navy.

Electronics is a Peacetime Science: We know it best through radio, a great and essential industry. But electronics works in almost every other industry, too—measuring in millionths of an inch, converting electric current to heat steel furnaces and to refine aluminum and magnesium, seeing through inches of steel, protecting property and human lives, regulating lighting. And electronic controls enable women to do many complex jobs in industry, releasing men for war.

But the destiny of electronics is not to replace—it is to add to the products and services we enjoy, and to make easier our ways of obtaining them. Things like television merely await the war's end. And in the electronic laboratories of today are the seeds of other, of new and undreamed-of benefits for tomorrow. General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

SOME PEACETIME USES OF ELECTRONIC TUBES

Home Radio — X-Rays — Elevator leveling — Textile, steel, and paper mill control — Television

What is Electronics, Anyway?

1. What is an electron?

The electron is one of the fundamental particles of matter and electricity. Electrons are part of atoms; atoms make up molecules. And molecules, in turn, make up all the matter in the world, and in the universe of which the world is but a small part. The electron is far too small to be seen, even with the best microscopes. Thirty thousand trillion trillion electrons would weigh less than one ounce! Electronics is the science of electrons.

2. Who discovered electronics?

No one person. Electronics has grown as the result of the work of many scientists, in many countries, over the past 60 years. It is growing faster today than ever before, as scientists learn more about electrons and how to use them.

3. What is the difference between an electronic tube and a radio tube?

A radio tube is one of the many kinds of electron tubes. They are as varied as the jobs they do. Some are small as a thimble, others big as a man. Some are vacuum tubes, others contain rare gases. Some are made of glass, others of steel. New types are being developed all the time.

4. Is television an electronic development?

Yes. So is the radio, the X-ray, radar. Electronic tubes work in the long-distance telephone; they control important processes in industry; they count and sort and safeguard. New uses are being found almost every day.

5. What does electronics promise for the future?

Many things. New products and services, new medical tools to help safeguard human health. Perhaps equally important, it will give us a tool by which we can make things faster, better, and cheaper, so that we can all afford more of them.

The Cornered Rat

The newly launched German offensive against the Russian lines south of Moscow appears, at this writing, to have already failed. At least, it is apparent that hoped for objectives were not reached and that the heavy expenditure of German men and material has achieved nothing in territory gained or Russian lines broken.

The world has waited, all through the early summer, for the start of an offensive on the Russian front. So long was it delayed, in fact, it was almost believed the German commanders realized their hopeless position and the fact they could wage nothing but defensive warfare in future.

This may still be true. The new offensive may well be nothing but a forlorn hope, an attempt to forestall a drive from the Red Army by attacking first. It is known that the Red forces are concentrated in much the same area where the recent fighting took place. It is altogether probable that, after smothering this and any other attacks the Germans may make, the forces of Stalin may themselves open an offensive later in the summer designed to sweep the weakening German invaders back to their own land. A Russian offensive in late summer, in view of the successful winter campaigns they have staged in the last two winters, would not be unexpected.

The Axis in Europe, driven out of Africa, with the Mediterranean out of their control, with the air onslaught from Britain playing havoc with their industry, is rapidly assuming the character of the cornered rat. That creature, everyone knows, is dangerous even when impotent to escape its foes. For it bites and snaps at its nearest enemy to the last.

The German assault between Orel and Belgorod may well be just one of the frantic, futile lashings out of a rat that realizes it cannot avert the end that draws nearer day by day.

The Raid on Crete

Successful raid by British patrols—probably Commandos—on the Axis-held island of Crete, in the Eastern Mediterranean, evidently had for its main purpose another test of the effectiveness of the landing tactics which have been developed in preparation for the invasion of Axis-held Europe which is to come.

It had been widely broadcast by the Germans that they had sown mine fields so thickly along the Cretan coast it was impossible for the United Nations to even reach that coast, let alone land troops. Yet the British, using shallow draft landing barges, not only landed patrols at numerous spots, but those patrols raided enemy airfields, destroyed planes on the ground, set fire to oil dumps and withdrew without the loss of a man.

By radio, the British told the Cretans this was not an invasion, merely a raid. They were warned to remain quiet and give no excuse for German reprisals against the native population. Significantly, however, the British added that when invasion actually comes, the Cretans will be so advised and they may then join the invaders in driving the foe from their land.

The successful raid must have added considerable pressure to the invasion jitters which the Axis suffers. It also lends color to the theory of some armchair strategists that, prior to the actual landing on Europe's soil, the Allies will attempt, first, to take Crete, the Dodecanese islands now held by Italy, Sicily and Sardinia.

Maybe so. At best, though, these armchair strategists are but guessing. Which is good. For, if they guess so variedly and persistently, what must Hitler, Musso and their gangs be doing inside the iron ring?

Unedifying Spectacle

To take sides in the quarrel now raging between Vice President Wallace and Secretary of Commerce Jones would be merely to add fuel to a situation which, as it carries on, is sufficiently tragic at such a time as this. The spectacle of the Vice President and a cabinet officer calling each other names is not only undignified, it is shocking and disturbing when government officials should be setting example of unity in time of war.

It is, perhaps, but the natural outcome of a pressure of jealousy and rivalry which has, evidently, been smouldering in the ranks of official Washington. It is, likewise, probably one of the results of the necessary concentration President Roosevelt has had to give to the war effort, even though at the expense of domestic affairs.

Now, in order to restore public confidence, it will be necessary for congress, or some other proper authority, to investigate the charges made by the two enraged officials. It will take time, it will disrupt two important branches of the war effort, and it will disturb public confidence. It is tragically unfortunate that Wallace and Jones felt compelled to air their differences in public.

It is generally understood that the broad plans of war strategy have been decided. It might, therefore, be wise for the President to leave the carrying out of those plans to the staff officers of Army and Navy and spend some time in getting his official family, in Washington, in order.

Who Is Best Informed?

The House Ways and Means Committee has voted adversely—thirteen to eleven—on extension of the life of the Guffey Coal Act. Provisions of the act will expire August 13 if extension is not granted.

Purpose of the Guffey act was to put a floor under coal prices, an action intended to prevent unregulated competition in an admittedly sick industry. It was first enacted in 1937.

Practically every one in position to know anything about the coal industry is anxious to have the act extended. It is claimed that failure to extend the act, thus withdrawing the prop to prices it provides, will result in bankruptcy for many mine operators and in a serious curtailment of coal production.

Ninety-five per cent of the mine operators are said to favor the act extension. The miners themselves, through their union, the United Mine Workers, have expressed themselves in support of the act.

President Roosevelt, in a special written recommendation, urged the committee to favor the extension. Admitting that the coal situation as a whole is unsettled, the President wrote, "it would be helpful if any phase of it could be definitely concluded. . . ."

Yet, despite the almost unanimous opinion of operators and miners, backed by the President, the Ways and Means Committee assumes to itself a knowledge and a wisdom in regard to the economics of the coal industry superior to that of men who have spent their lives in it. And votes to kill an act which, admittedly, conduces to greater coal production as well as to industry stabilization at a time when the need for both is tragically urgent.

A Serious Loss

It is unwise to attempt to minimize the loss to the cause of the United Nations suffered by the death of the premier of the Polish government-in-exile, Wladyslaw Sikorski. He died, with 15 others, when the plane in which he was returning to England after he had spent a month with Polish troops in the Middle East, crashed just after leaving Gibraltar.

Sikorski was a dynamic leader, an inspiration to all Poles. He was not only premier, but military leader also, combining the two offices in his own person. No one, since Paderewski, has so vitally personified the spirit of flaming freedom which has marked the national character of Poland for centuries.

Whether or not the Polish government-in-exile can raise up another man to properly carry on Sikorski's work remains for time to tell.

In the meantime, it is well to remember that Sikorski had plans, in which rested high hope, for healing the breach of recent months between his government and that of Soviet Russia. It is, for the sake of the cause of freedom for which the United Nations fight, earnestly to be hoped his successor will carry that program through to success.

"Because of lessons learned in Africa, the Nazis adopt yellow uniforms"—one of those rare occasions on which a gag improves in the translation.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

NAZI HOME PROPAGANDA WASHINGTON, July 6.—It has been apparent for some time now that the Nazis are using an intensified "fear propaganda" on the German people as a means of forestalling any possibility of a collapse on the home front.

After torturing, pillaging and murdering millions of people in the war, the Nazi leaders are telling the Germans they will be destroyed—Nazis and anti-Nazis alike—if the Axis nations lose.

Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels is steadily pounding this line home to the German people. Realizing that their own necks are at stake, the Nazi leaders are trying to save themselves by forcing the people through fear propaganda to support the war to the bitter end.

In adopting this new propaganda line the Nazis have had to reverse themselves completely. At the beginning of the war, the German people were told only the good news. Unfavorable developments were withheld entirely or grossly distorted.

The Nazi propagandists would tolerate no thesis other than final and complete victory, which was continually put forward as an immediate prospect.

To show the extremes to which they have gone in the opposite direction, the Nazis are now telling the people practically everything. It is rather amazing, for example, to hear the Berlin radio putting on eyewitness accounts of the destruction wrought by Allied bombing raids on the Rhur region. In the beginning, all damage from bombings was carefully concealed from the public generally. Now they seem to be anxious for the people to know the worst.

U-BOAT ADMISSION It is singular, also, that public admissions should be forthcoming from Admiral Donitz, head of the German U-boat fleet, that the submarine campaign against Allied shipping has temporarily failed. By his own confession, the Germans sank only some 107,000 tons of shipping in June, as against claims of more than a million tons for one month only a short while ago.

All of this fits into the new pattern of the Nazi propaganda line which first made its appearance at the time of Stalingrad. Hitler and Goebbels made no effort to conceal the magnitude of that disaster. Instead they sought to prepare the German people for the bad news by ordering a period of mourning and a series of dirges broadcast over the radio for home consumption.

It was practically the same when the next major disaster overtook them in Tunisia, although the Germans in that case did seek to give the appearance of a certain measure of victory in their success in holding us up for several months.

POLICY OF DEFEATISM But the whole tenor of Nazi propaganda since Stalingrad has been one of growing defeatism. The people are having it droned into them what an Axis defeat would mean to Germany.

Goebbels has been compelled to resort to fear psychology as a means of driving the German people on to an unyielding opposition. Unless they fight to the bitter end the German race will be destroyed, he is warning.

No doubt all of this will serve to prolong the war beyond its normal limits. So long as the German people are sold to this idea there is little chance they may repeat the performance of 1918 and throw their leaders overboard. In that year, it is recalled, the Wilson Fourteen Points, which pledged certain guarantees to the German nation, are credited with having been a material factor in the collapse on the home front which brought about an immediate end to the war.

The time seems opportune, therefore, for the Allied governments to defeat the Goebbels fear propaganda line by stepping in with a declaration of their intentions as regards the German people in the postwar world. President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have adequately stated our purpose as regards the Axis leaders. We intend to bring them to justice for all of the bloody deeds and hideous crimes they have imposed by plunging the world into war.

PLANS FOR AXIS PEOPLES But no proper declaration has yet been forthcoming as to our purpose in dealing with the peoples of the Axis nations. Some among us no doubt think the world would be better off if the whole lot of them were exterminated like disease-infested rats. If the Poles and the Greeks and the Czechs, and probably the French, had their way, Germany would be made a slaughter house after the final Allied victory is won.

We know, though, that more temporate policies will prevail, and that in the final accounting no punitive measures, however well deserved, will be meted out to the rank and file of the German people.

That being true, it might save us countless lives and further heavy expenditures in war costs to inform the German people now of our intentions regarding them. To do so would utterly defeat the present propaganda line of Hitler and Goebbels. It might bring about a collapse months earlier than we could achieve by military operations.

WILL BE TOO LATE Once Russia, with her bloodthirsty hordes bent on retribution, reach the German boundary, bringing with them the Poles and other oppressed peoples of Nazi aggression, it will be too late to offer the German people any guarantees. Nature and the consequences of war will take their course.

These things could be driven home to the German people in a telling way if presented now in a proper Allied declaration. Here is a task of the greatest importance for Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill, and the OWI.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

They Do Not Die—

Now, almost every day, we read in our newspapers the names of men who have died in the service of their country on some distant field of battle, in an enemy prison camp or on the lonely waters when their ship went down.

As we read, we think of the families of these men. Of the mothers and fathers, the brothers and sisters and friends. For they are our folks, the neighbors. Those who live in the cities and on the farms of Georgia. Those who, in this and the other states, make up the warp and woof of that spirit we call the United States of America.

And, most of us look fearfully at the list, wondering if, today, we shall read the name of some one near and dear to us.

There is no real comfort the stranger may bring to a family so stricken. It is greater kindness to leave them to their sorrow, for a little while. Only after the shock of the first pain has passed, is it fitting that outsiders, even dearest friends and most understanding neighbors, can come again within the house and help to carry the maimed family back towards the normalcy of everyday life.

But, and this should never be forgotten, they do not, really, die, these boys of ours who give life itself for the sacred cause of freedom. They do not die because, famous or unknown, of high rank or humble, the memory of life and of their final supreme gift, lives after them. That memory lives to strengthen the cause of America and her democracy, to make greater the heritage of liberty which we pass on to the next generation as the torch falls from our own failing hands.

Man's Immortality.

The Christian faith holds fast that the individual soul does not perish when the body which houses it on earth is destroyed.

There is, though, another mode of immorality which is proven true before our material eyes, which requires no faith for itself. That is the immortality of the family and, through the family, of the nation and of its ideals.

A man lives on in his sons. From generation to generation, continuing down the centuries, the family survives, even though the individuals return to dust and are, by the great world, forgotten. The human race has been since it first emerged from primeval ooze and it shall be until that final trump establishes the perfect world of the spirit in place of this earthly paradise we now call home.

And, even as the family, the nation continues from generation to generation.

Those who die for righteous cause, in war or in times of peace, do not end their careers when the sod covers their earthly remains. For the flaming spirit which motivated them as breathing men, lives on to inspire the hearts of Americans of many generations to come. It is the sum total of the courage and sacrifice of the pioneers of the years gone by that makes the America we know today, great. And those of our own who die in this world war for freedom each contribute to that eternal spirit of America. Until, in some future age, the day will come when the accumulation of such sacrifice, the spiritual power of such devotion, will forever overwhelm all forces of evil which would crush man's aspirations for individual liberty.

All Shall Be Remembered.

We know, today, the names of the famous patriots who died when the republic was young, that they might make sure its life and growth. We honor no less those more humble ones whose names have been forgotten, though their sacrifice was no less complete.

And so it shall be for those whose names stand behind the gold stars of this war.

Students of the coming generations will be better Americans as they learn of such men as MacArthur, Halsey, Kelly, Marshall, Doolittle, Eisenhower and the host who led us to victory over ruthless despots.

And, in the homes of the future, men and women now young will tell their grandchildren how some member of their family, some unpublicized Pfc. or Cpl., died in Tunisia or Europe or on Bataan or Guadalcanal or Attu, to keep our America free and to make possible the realization of its dreams. Those grandchildren will grow to be better Americans because of the heritage of service and sacrifice created by their blood of a former age.

The bodies of those we mourn may lie beneath foreign sod which, thereby, becomes forever a part of America. But, in all truth, we know they do not die.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Sweet Racket NEW YORK, June 6.—Since last winter when I went to Kansas City and completed a long preliminary investigation of the sweet insurance racket conducted by Harold M. Franklin, the son of J. A. Franklin, president of the Boilermakers' Union of the AFL, I have gone further into the matter and made new interesting discoveries. Incidentally, lest there be any misunderstanding, I would say that Harold M. Franklin, the old man's kid, and William E. Walter, the international secretary-treasurer are both liars. Incidentally, an attempt was made to cover up this racket by denying that young Franklin, was then, in March of this year, or ever had been the beneficiary agent in any insurance business between the union and any company. I have a number of court records proving that he was and still is the agent and a photostat of the current insurance agreement between the union and the Occidental Life Insurance Company of California signed by the elder Franklin and by Walter. I have also a photostat of the commission agreement between the company and Harold M. Franklin whereby the son of the president is promised four per cent of the total premiums for the first year, which ended July 1, 1942, and two per cent for the remaining nine years of the policy. Members of the union who were not only forced to join but also compelled to buy this insurance at the high rate of $15 a year have told me that there are now about 300,000 members which would mean that young Franklin and his partner, Jerome S. Koehler, a lawyer, divide $180,000 a year equally between them. In addition they receive commissions on other insurance promoted by the union through its national headquarters in Kansas City, Kansas, and their total income would appear to be about $100,000 a year each. The number of the policy is 756100.

The insurance laws of the various states are not uniform but an insurance expert has told me that most of them forbid discrimination. Nevertheless, this agreement between the union and the company for the great benefit of the union's president's son, does discriminate. The first year member gets only $333.33 of coverage for his $15, the second-year man gets $666.66 and those who have been members for three years or more get $1,000. Young Franklin's cut is the same in all cases, however.

Money To Union Another interesting provision of the contract is one which sets aside large amounts of money for payment to the union, itself. There is no mention of any intention to divide this money between the members or to use it to reduce the premiums. It goes straight into the treasury presided over by Brother Walter in Kansas City, Kans., in addition to a rakeoff already deducted from the victim's $1.25 a month ostensibly for the expense of keeping the union's insurance records in its home office. Members, of course, will come and go. In the last year vast and incalculable numbers of victims have been herded into the fold in the great shipyards of the country, and Henry Kaiser has been a party to this operation through his closed shop agreements, whereby hordes of persons unknown were delivered over to the compulsory insurance racket far is advance of their employment. The transient members included in the great turnover of course have a right to any benefit or kickback accruing from their payments for it is general practice in the insurance business to use the reserves for the benefit of the policyholders. But the elder Franklin and Walter saw to it that this money would not be earmarked for the members. Not even the unioneers in command of the locals are allowed to make a pass at it. It goes to the international, in addition to eight and one-third cents a month from each member in the guise of administration expenses in the union's insurance department, with its vast regular income, including money wrung from shipyard workers who had to join and pay in order to get jobs building ships for old Sam but would have preferred not to; the union, of course, easily could have absorbed this administration cost. But, in any case, this shakedown of more than six per cent added to the cost of the coverage, obviously is far out of proportion to the actual cost of keeping the insurance records. It comes to $25,000 a month or $300,000 a year, just for bookkeeping.

Compelled To Contribute And, brooding over the entire situation is the fact that the union officials got together with the Occidental Life Insurance Company of California and negotiated a contract which throws a sweet profit to the company and to the union and a fabulous rakeoff to the son of the union's president in which the policyholder had absolutely no voice. He was not consulted. He may not even have been a member when the policy was written. Thousands were not members then. But they are compelled to contribute to the company, the union and young Franklin and Koehler, his partner, under penalty of dismissal from the union and from their jobs in the shipyards, and the United States government stands by approving.

The Spirit of the United Nations.

Oh human race, confused, forlorn, thy Freedom's standards tattered, torn
As you balance on the ledge
Of chaos, harken to my pledge:
I pledge by God and all that's right
With all my strength and all my might
That freedom once again shall ring,
And thou shalt have the right to sing.
The right to seek, and truths to find,
The right to think and speak your mind
Thou shalt not worship a man made throne
Let God be your master, and God alone.
And peace shall rule earth, sky and sea,
And thou shalt stay—forever free!

ONE WORD MORE

"QUEEN OF BATTLES" The infantry, long famed as the "Queen of Battles," which has taken back seat for some time to the more spectacular new brances of the Army, now is beginning to come into its own in this greatest of wars. That was well demonstrated in Tunisia. After the air forces had done a magnificent job of blasting the Luftwaffe from the skies, after the armored force had knocked the pants off the panzers, it was P. B. I. (Poor Bloomin' Infantry), the guy with guts at both ends of the bayonet, who came along to make Axis troops say "Uncle."

When invasion of Europe comes, it will be "The Infantry, the Infantry, with the dirt behind their ears," as we sang in World War I, which will have to do the dirty work. The infantry, no matter what retired colonels of cavalry may say, will be the gang which will have to take the ground and hold it.

When this is done, it is a pretty safe bet almost every square yard of European—and Asiatic—earth which is taken will feel the imprint of feet which have trod the red earth of Georgia. Why and how? Simply because practically all the junior officers who will lead the platoons and companies of American infantrymen in battle have been trained for combat on Georgia soil. This training has been given them, is being given to them, every hour of every day at the largest, toughest, most efficient school in the world—the Infantry School located on some 200,000 acres of Georgia soil at Fort Benning, that huge Army post which is named for a Confederate general, just outside Columbus, Ga.

Ever since the end of World War I, when T. I. S., as it is known in Army abbreviationese, was founded, this school has been doing a steadily more important job of training officers to lead combat units in the basic arm of the service.

WAR EXPANSION Three years ago, when leaders of the Army saw clearly that real warfare was knocking at America's gates, the Infantry School began to show what it really could do. Under the leadership of General Lloyd R. Fredendall, the three-star commander of the Second Army, T. I. S. began to expand faster than it is probable any business organization ever has expanded. The Army of the United States—the citizens' Army which the draft was raising—was growing astronomically. It had to have officers—not only generals and colonels, but also most importantly lieutenants and captains, the junior officers who lead small units of men in that mad confusion which combat always is. To the Infantry School went the job of providing most of these new officers.

So, two years ago, down to T. I. S. from West Point came Colonel Dick Coursey, a native Georgian who had made a brilliant record as an instructor at the Military Academy, to organize the course by which men chosen from the ranks could be transformed into officers in the short time of 13 weeks. No easy job was this. Much more did the junior infantry officer have to know in World War II than did the "90-day wonders" of World War I. In the years between, the science of war had sped up immeasurably, had branched out into new weapons and new tactics of which lieutenants in the first AEF never dreamed.

THE FIRST CLASS Back in those spring days of 1941, when many Americans still hoped war would not knock at our door, Colonel Coursey and a picked group of officers started to work on the first class of some 200 men carefully selected from the ranks. Thirteen weeks later, on a hot, bright midsummer day, this reporter saw those who made the grade—and most of them did—march proudly to the post theater and get their commissions as second lieutenants in the Army of the United States.

That day marked a milestone in the expansion of the Army of the United States. From that day on, Colonel Coursey, with an ever increasing staff of assistants, including many who have come up from the ranks through the OC course, has been turning out steadily growing numbers of young officers to meet the needs of the expanding Army. At one time at least one new class was being received and one class being graduated every day. At that time, T. I. S. was graduating more officers per day than it formerly graduated per year in peacetimes.

But this expansion was not made at the cost of lowering standards. On the contrary, standards were being steadily raised to meet conditions of combat reported by T. I. S. observers in every theater of action. First under General Fredendall, then under General Omar N. Bradley, who commanded the troops which broke the Axis back in Tunisia; then under the present leadership of Major General Leven C. Allen and Brigadier General George H. Weems, academic and physical standards for the officer candidate course have been raised, made tougher, geared closer to the demands of this war.

"MOST IMPORTANT PLACE" All the time, while doing this truly terrific job of transforming men from the ranks into officers, T. I. S. also has been teaching advanced courses of officers all the way up to brigadier general, has been sending out new instructional material to troops all over the world, and has been teaching communications and motor maintenance to enlisted men. All this has been done with an efficiency and a pressure which amazes educators who visit T. I. S. To such an extent did this impress a recent distinguished educator that he wrote, upon returning to Harvard, "The Infantry School is perhaps the most important place in America."

What "the most important place in America" does and how it does it is a story of which every American can be proud. This will be told in a subsequent column.

The First Step in Building a Civilization Is to Clear Out Pests and Dangers

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Many a frontier household was like an independent principality. It was self-sufficient. The family, perhaps helped by servants or slaves, produced everything consumed. They raised sheep and processed the wool to make their own garments. They produced their own food; made their own leather into shoes; produced their own fuel, candles, soap, dyes, beverages and medicine.

Though they trafficked some with distant outposts or neighbors, they could have lived in complete isolation.

So a man like Colonel McCormick, having inherited a great fortune, could live in splendid isolation today. On a tidewater farm, with enough timber and a stream to furnish power, with stock of all kinds and modern machines and a staff of servants skilled in all crafts, he could live aloof from the world and yet enjoy every comfort and luxury.

But there isn't room for all to live that way, even if they had enough money to buy equipment, and it isn't an efficient arrangement.

Even in pioneer days, people had learned that everybody fares better in a land of specialists. The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker, the shipwright and the gunsmith devoted their energies to producing one thing, which they traded for things made by their neighbors.

Specialists produce more wealth to be divided by all. One man may earn $50 a week making shoes, but if he had to produce every article his family eats, consumes or uses, starting with only the raw materials, it would take him years to produce what his $50 will buy.

All men and nations specialize and exchange products because experience has proved this system profitable for all.

We wish to do, first and last, what is best for America—not to play Santa Claus for the world, yet not to cut off our own nose to spite our face. And these things we know.

No rich man can live in his fine house in peace and security if his neighbors are lawless, impoverished and diseased. Prosperous and civilized customers are the most profitable to deal with. Business thrives best in an orderly community, and both duty and common sense require each member of the community to help maintain order.

We must think first of America, but nothing can benefit America more than a peaceful, orderly and prosperous world.

OFF THE RECORD—By Ed Reed

"If Hollywood can't get them any younger, what kind of boy friends do you expect ME to get?"

Dudley Glass

One of the nicest things that has come out of this war—and there are many, including shortage of canned spinach — is the Sunday stay-at-home habit, which has been adopted, I am informed, by many of our best families.

Staying at home — unless you hope for or dread unexpected callers all dressed up in white flannels and sport coats — calls for slacks. If you haven't any slacks a pair of 1938 pants will do, regardless of moth holes, which really serve for ventilation. And an old shirt, with the sleeves cut off. And a pair of slippers, purchased when rationing was undreamed of and Hitler was still hanging paper instead of Poles.

By spending Sunday in such attire you can make the week come out even.

It is nice to read about Britishers in the remote fastnesses of the bush country who don evening clothes at 6 p. m., even if there isn't a white person within 607 miles—just to maintain the prestige of the white race. I've never believed that story in the first place. Because white supremacy—in my case—would be secondary to scratching a mosquito bite on a fifth rib, and you just can't scratch a mosquito bite while wearing a hardboiled shirt. Not without getting your scratching hand down and under, which entails extracting shirt tail from trousers. However, it's a good story. I do hope I'll never fall out of an airplane over such a Britisher's jungle retreat while I'm hungry. Because I'm pretty sure I wouldn't have even a dinner jacket and black tie along—and would have to eat with the natives.

But what I was trying to say was a stay-at-home Sunday, wearing nothing much, makes a six-day week as concerns laundry.

Since laundries and household help became so uncertain I have discovered — in company with many friends—that it is possible to wear a shirt, underwear and socks two days in succession, if you'll avoid intimacy with upper class strangers with a strain of bloodhound in their ancestry.

The traditional seven-day week, therefore, was a bother. Who could keep up with the days without a pencil and pad, which rarely are to be found in a bathroom?

But, by counting Sunday out, as a shirtless and sockless day, one can start even and make things work out. Fresh garments on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. And the same next week.

Our Six-Day Week Helps Straighten Laundry Problem

Famine in England

Now that Ralph McGill is safely arrived somewhere in England, a confrere is permitted to wonder how we will live?

As to food, I mean. The thousands who know Ralph know what a mighty trencherman he is. Those who haven't dined with him have read his dissertations on food, especially New Orleans food. He dwells lovingly upon all kinds of delicacies from shrimp bisque to crepes suzette. He will devote perhaps a half-column to a steak he met—and conquered—in a little place around the corner in New York. His analysis is both qualitative and quantitative, and I often wonder how many boarding house landladies went busted feeding him in his young bachelor days.

Now McGill is in England. And from what I've been reading of London in wartime the inhabitants get about enough food to sustain a canary with stomach ulcers.

Ralph has many friends in England and they, of course, will invite him to occasional meals. Once! When he has said goodbye their pantries will look like a country kitchen after the preacher has spent the weekend. And the children, pale and wan, will ask their parents:

Pappa and Mamma, who was that big man who used up all our next week's ration cards? And do you think maybe Hitler sent him?"

What, No Dog Oil?

Anonymous author of "Asparagus Tips" in the Bartow Herald is responsible for this contribution to general information:

"An old crippled Negro was by to see us this week. He reasoned that the war had brought on another shortage heretofore unmentioned in the papers. It is dog oil, which, he says, is tops for rheumatism because it is the fastest penetrating liquid known to the trade. He vows that a drop of this oil poured in your palm will run through to the back of your hand before you can turn it over.

"All this, however, didn't explain the dog oil shortage, so we asked to be enlightened. Says he, 'It takes a real fat dog to make any oil, and on short rations dogs don't get that way.'"

Just invested in a carton of cigarets and discovered they lack the cellophane wrapper.

Fine! Now perhaps my right thumb nail will have a chance to grow back into its natural shape.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON

"WE LOVE HIM."

Early Monday morning, the people started coming in from widely scattered areas of the state for the Truett meeting. Some came on Sunday, but most of them were held at home in loyalty to their own churches. Pastors, for example, traveled by bus and train all night Sunday night to be here in time for Dr. Truett's Monday morning sermon.

"Mind sitting up all night to get here in time to hear Dr. Truett preach? Why man, I would have missed two nights' sleep to hear that sermon this morning," said one rural preacher who had traveled across the state in a crowded day coach on Sunday night.

Dr. A. J. Ritchie, founder of the Rabun Gap school, and lifelong friend of Dr. Truett, arrived early with Editor L. P. Cross, of the Clayton Tribune, and Pastor and Mrs. Roy Davis, of Clayton. Dr. Ritchie said:

"We listened to his sermon Sunday over WGST, but today we are going to see him as well as hear him. You see, we love him—we people in the mountains—and we just couldn't let him come this near us without seeing his face once more this side of Jordan."

An elderly woman from south Georgia came two hours before the service Monday morning, and was sitting quietly in the auditorium. I spoke to her, bidding her welcome. And I was sorry I had broken upon her silent worship. Lifting her tear-filled eyes, she said:

"Dr. Truett preached to my only son who was on duty in France in the last war, and he accepted Chirst there in that foreign land, and now his son is yonder in Australia, a Christian, I am happy to tell you, and I was just sitting here thanking our Heavenly Father for what Dr. Truett has meant to our family. I am left alone—my husband and son have gone on to be with the Lord, and only my grandson is left, and he is far away, but here in the quiet of the sanctuary this morning I feel strangely comforted and strengthened by His grace which is always sufficient."

Eddie Hood, of the Savannah Morning News, and Nelson Shipp, of the Columbus Ledger-Inquirer, were among the out-of-town guests on Sunday. They had come to Atlanta to see and hear the great preacher once again.

Farmers, bankers, merchants, mechanics, engineers, lawyers, doctors, journalists, educators—a wonderful cross-section of Georgia life has been seen daily at the Truett meetings. It is, indeed, a tribute to the man's greatness—a greatness which stems from goodness. And as one of old said: "There is no power like the power of goodness—a human heart fully surrendered to the will and way of God."

This is by way of saying that I hope still other friends throughout the state will find it possible to come and share the blessing of Dr. Truetts ministry each morning at the church at 11 o'clock and each evening at the Municipal Auditorium at 8 o'clock, through next Sunday, July 11. The papers have been most gracious in carrying stories of the meetings, but it is still better to see him and hear him.

The Ration Counter...

Your questions about all phases of the various rationing programs will be answered authoritatively by the Ration Counter. Telephone your questions to WAlnut 3876 between the hours of 10 a. m. and 6 p. m. Inquiries by mail must be accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope. They should be addressed to the Ration Counter, care The Constitution, Atlanta.

Victory gardeners who have been climbing into their automobiles and driving to their various plots to launch hand-to-hand combats with the weeds will not be able to get any extra gasoline to continue those trips after July 12, OPA announced yesterday.

Special gas rations for victory gardeners will be discontinued after that date in response to a recommendation from the Department of Agriculture which contended that any gardens planted after that date would be too late to be worth their while.

But, pointed out OPA officials, any special rations which have already been issued for these victory garden trips may be used as long as valid.

These rations, in some cases, provided for as much as 300 miles for the summer season.

If any of the gardens lie within three miles of their gardeners' places of employment, however, these lucky people may use their A cards to drive back and forth if the driving is considered necessary for the continuance of their cultivation.

Mistakes Sometimes Occur On Number 3 Books

In spite of OPA's efforts to see that the number 3 ration books are processed correctly, mistakes have inevitably crept into a few of them, and the people concerned are naturally wondering "What should I do with my book, if anything?"

For example, a woman wrote from Winder yesterday: "Two of the number 3 ration books for my family have the same name on them—one is for my husband and the other for my son. That is all right so far as it goes, but my husband is 'senior' and my son 'junior,' and neither of the books is labelled that way.

"How may I tell which is for my husband and which for my son, and how should the mistake be set right?"

Any mistakes which anyone catches in his new ration book should not cause any concern until after the first of August. After that date, the books should be taken to the county boards and changed there.

"I would like to get the change made as quickly as possible," the Winder correspondent continued yesterday, "because my son has entered college and I would like to get his book to him as soon as possible."

Since the new books will not replace the number 1 and number 2 books until approximately the middle of the fall, this boy's mother will have plenty of time to get the book corrected after the first of August and forward it to him before the number 3 books are put into effect.

Air Raid Wardens May Get 'B' Books

Air raid wardens, while not eligible for C gasoline rations on the strength of their defense activities, can get B books for supplemental mileage in performance of their duty.

Volunteers assisting in the war effort are eligible for extra gas rations up to a B book, but before they can get it, a member of the agency to which they are lending a hand must vouch for the applicant.

Consumers Will Save 20 Billion Dollars

If prices are held at their present levels, consumers will have approximately 20 billion dollars more in their pockets by the end of 1943 than they would if the cost of living was allowed to skyrocket, Prentis M. Brown, OPA administrator, told the committee on appropriations of the house of representatives at a recent hearing.

This fact, he pointed out, is an indication of the vital role the administration's price control program is playing in keeping the lid on potential runaway cost of living.

15 Workmen Missing After Tug, Freighter Hit

HALIFAX, July 6—(AP)—Fifteen workmen weer missing today after the Halifax Shipyards, Ltd., tug Erg sank in Bedford basin following a collision with a freighter.

The men were part of a crew of welders and electricians aboard the tug en route to a ship in the basin. It was reported unofficially that 27 men were on the 55-foot craft. Twelve were accounted for, seven of them picked up by the freighter.

Although complete details were lacking, it was reported that the tug was traveling alongside the freighter with about 20 yards separatinfg the two vessels when they suddenly came together, side on. The tug rolled over several times before she sank.

Maharajah of Indore Is Granted Divorce

RENO, Nev., July 6.—(AP)—The wealthy Maharajah of Indore was granted a divorce today from the former Marguerite Lawler Branyen, of Fargo, N. D., whom he charged with extreme cruelty.

The divorce complaint filed under the name of Y. R. Holkar versus Marguerite Lawler Holwar, showed they were married in Taxco, Mexico, on September 19, 1938.

The Maharajah, 33-year-old ruler of 1,325,089 subjects, met Mrs. Branyen in 1936 at a Los Angeles hospital, where she was a nurse. He employed her as nurse to his only child, Yusha Devi, daughter of his first wife, who died in 1937.

WLB Blocks Phone Firm's Pay Increases

Company May File New Application for Salary Adjustments.

The Fourth Regional War Labor Board yesterday announced denial of proposed wage and salary increases for more than 16,000 employes of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company in nine southern states.

The decision, which was unanimous, will permit the company to make a new application for salary adjustments if additional information can be presented, Chairman M. T. Van Hecke said.

Proposed increases, to apply largely in the top or near-top rates for various job classifications, amounted in general to from $2.50 to $5 per month for employes whose rates now range between $80 and $225 monthly depending upon the size of telephone exchanges and the employes' length of service.

The application involved telephone employes in Alabama, Floriday, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and Louisiana.

Van Hecke said the company based its application for adjustment on the Little Steel Formula, which permits pay raises up to 15 per cent of the rates paid on January 1, 1941.

The board ruled the cost of living formula was not applicable since a WLB decision in March on a Southern Bell case authorized adjustments up to the level of rates paid for similar work in the area involved.

Savannah Flyer Cited in Aleutians

HEADQUARTERS, ALASKA DEFENSE COMMAND, July 6.—(AP)—Award of the air medal to 133 members of the 11th Air Force was announced yesterday by the Alska defense command.

The awards were for "valiant and heroic service while flying missions in the Aleutians, a territory now well known as having worse flying conditions, as far as weather, fog and ice are concerned, than any other military theater in the world."

The airmen were decorated by orders of Major General W. O. Butler, air force commanding general, and medals were presented by Lieutenant General Simon B. Buckner Jr., commanding the ABC, and Brigadier General Robert V. Ignico, deputy commander of the 11th Air Force.

Those receiving the air medal included:

Robert M. Leighty, flight officer, pilot, 213 E. 38th, Savannah, Ga.

The Constitution welcomes letters from its readers. The more the better. But, please keep 'em short.

LONG OVER-DUE.

Editor, Constitution: Orchids, a whole bunch of them, to whoever wrote "$50 a Month—Plus" in a recent issue in all this welter of middled thinking and intentional misstatement. It was long overdue. JOHN N. WARE.

"$50, PLUS—"

Editor, Constitution: Upon several occasions I have been on the verge of taking pen in hand to express my satisfaction, but this O. C. S. curriculum leaves little time for corresponding. However, the editorial, "$50 Per Month, Plus" so agrees with my side of many debates in which I have been engaged with my "comrades in arms," that I write to question whether or not you have at hand any statistics. My contention is that a sergeant, or his equivalent in other branches, is as well off as a $200 per week "defense worker" after living expenses, income tax and various other deductions are made.

I particularly like your defense of our President when he is put on the spot by some lame-brain who has only regard for his own selfish interests at a time when the nation is in such peril.

It was my lot to be on my way to the Phillipines on December 7, 1941, and my unit replaced the Marines on Guadalcanal. It is needless to say that some of my "buddies" are marked by "dog-tagged crosses" and you may be interested to know that here at school I did exceptionally well on the bayonet course merely by stretching the imagination sufficiently to see John L. Lewis in place of the dummy.

I am one of seven children (No. 5) of a pioneer California family, descendant of the "Democratic Boss" and state vice chairman; brother of a former legislative secretary to Governor Warren, of California (the draft took him, too); a 28-year-old real estate and insurance man who was caught in the draft before the outbreak of hostility, a would-have-been candidate for the state legislature, had not Uncle Sam taken me before the primary, who appreciates your bearing with me this long.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Gallup Poll Reports:

South's Criticism of New Deal

By GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 6.—Whatever the political tides may be, the Democrats must have the backing of the solid south to win the election next year. Because of the vital importance of the south to the Roosevelt administration politically, the Institute has during recent days been conducting a survey among the people, as distinguished from the leaders, of thirteen southern states to determine their attitudes on a number of current problems, including politics.

Of various possible Democratic candidates for president next year Mr. Roosevelt is the number one choice of southern Democrats, as reported last week. That does not mean, however, that they like all the things he is doing.

Least Liked Policies.

One question put to southerners in the Institute's survey was this:

"What do you like least about the Roosevelt administration?"

The White House foreign policy came in for virtually no criticism; it is the handling of domestic affairs which southern voters single out for blame.

Specifically, the three things they dislike most about the Roosevelt administration are (1) what they consider the poor handling of labor, or "coddling of unions;" (2) waste and extravagance in the use of public funds; and (3) inefficiency in administration, or too much red tape and bureaucracy.

Although a number of southern leaders have expressed resentment over the Roosevelt administration's methods and attitudes in dealing with the Negro question, it is interesting to note that southern voters put that topic relatively far down on their list of criticisms on the President.

One-third (33 per cent) of the southerners interviewed in the survey had no criticism or no opinion to offer regarding the faults of the administration. The chief criticisms offered by the rest are as follows:

Labor Hit Hardest.

Poor handling of labor unions	22%
Extravagance, waste of public funds, paying people who don't work as hard as they should	11
Inefficiency, bureaucracy, red tape	11
Sponsoring too much equality of Negroes	5
Unfair treatment of southern farmers	5
Stimulating liquor trade by repeal of prohibition	2
Failure to curb inflation	1
Too high taxes	1
Unpreparedness for war	1

Of the 22 per cent who mentioned the labor union situation as their chief criticism, one-third singled out the handling of the recent coal crisis, blaming the administration for "leniency toward John L. Lewis," or "hesitation in settling the coal strike."

In that connection it is interesting to note that many southern Democrats in congress joined with Republicans in voting for the Connally-Smith anti-strike bill and in passing the bill over the President's veto.

The southern states included in the survey were Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Kentucky, Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Lieutenant Protzman

ATLANTA FLIGHT OFFICER HITS STRIKING MINERS

An Atlanta flight officer, Lieutenant Harvey F. Protzman, recently wrote his family here that he wished striking coal miners could go along on one raid with the American fliers who have been blasting the daylights out of occupied Europe.

"Did you read about the big raid we had on Kiel here last week?" questioned the flier, when he wrote, "Boy it sure was terrific. I sure wish some of those coal strikers could have been along on that raid. Maybe they wouldn't be so eager for more money or less hours or whatever they are striking for."

Protzman, who joined the RAF in September, 1941, and served until his transfer to the American Air Forces in March, is stationed in England. The son of Charles L. Protzman, of Mendon, Ohio, he was employed at Wright Field, Ohio, as a civilian.

His sister, Miss Emma Lee Protzman, and brother, Thomas, reside at 38 Saunders street, N. E.

Modelling Goal Of City's New Beauty Queen

Barbara Britton, 19, Would Be Magazine Cover Girl.

Modelling for magazine covers is the goal set by Atlanta's newest beauty queen, Barbara Britton, who Monday outclassed more than 50 entries in the annual "Miss Atlanta" contest at Lakewood Park.

While she is only 19 years old, Miss Britton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed H. Britton, of 1040 Rosewood drive, has taken a big step toward that ultimate goal by winning the coveted Atlanta beauty award.

She was awarded a $50 war bond as first prize. Runners-up were Miss Barbara Brewer, of 228 Pine street, N. W., who took second prize of a $25 war bond, and Miss Clara Johnson, of 1022 Crew street and Lois Sheppard, of 205 Racine street, who tied for third place. Both were awarded $25 war bonds.

"MISS ATLANTA '43"—Barbara Britton, green-eyed brunet, walked off with first-place honors in the annual "Miss Atlanta" contest held at Lakewood park Monday night. She is 19 and weighs 120 pounds.

L. F. HARRIS RETURNS TO DUTY

L. F. Harris.

L. F. Harris, of 847 Fox street, S. W., who was on a ship that escorted Doolittle to within 500 miles of Tokyo, left yesterday to return to duty at Mare Island.

While in this city, Harris visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Harris. It was his first trip home in 18 months.

Zender Vester Dean, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Cornelius Dean, of Norcross, Ga., was graduated recently from the Army Air Forces Advanced Flying school at Napier Field, Ala., and commissioned a second lieutenant.

Lieutenant Dean.

Dean, whose wife is the former Miss Marian Elizabeth Howard, of Atlanta, is a graduate of Hoke Smith Junior High school and was employed by Rich's, Inc., when he enlisted in the Army in January, 1942. He was accepted for flight training in April, 1942.

COLUMBUS WOMAN TO FERRY PLANES

A member of the nation's third class of Army-trained feminine fliers, Louise Elizabeth Kidd, of Columbus, Ga., received her Air Force Wings last week at Sweetwater, Texas.

Louise Kidd.

Miss Kidd, who took her first flying lessons in 1940 at Beacon Field, Va., attended Columbus (Ga.) Industrial High school and the Columbus University Junior College in Washington, D. C. A member of the Civil Air Patrol, with 185 flying hours to her credit when she entered the Army's Women Pilots Training School, Miss Kidd is the daughter of Edd Kidd, of Columbus.

She will now be assigned to the job of ferrying military planes from factories to fields.

A. C. CHILDERS HOME ON FURLOUGH.

Petty Officer Third Class A. C. Childers, one of four brothers now serving Uncle Sam, is home on furlough, visiting his mother, Mrs. Julia Childers, of 920 Moreland avenue, after 18 months of active duty with the Navy in North Africa and other war zones.

A. C. Childers.

He attended O'Keefe Junior High school and was employed by the Briarcliff laundry before enlisting in the Navy in January, 1941.

His brothers are Technical Sergeant William L. Childers in the Army Air Forces, now stationed at Fort Dix, N. J.; Sergeant F. M. Childers, serving with the Army overseas, and Seaman Second Class Henry S. Childers, now in training at Camp Peary, Va.

C. W. HARP SERVING WITH "SEABEES"

Now serving overseas with the Navy "Seabees" is Petty Officer Third Class C. W. Harp, a carpenter's mate third class. He entered the Construction Battalion in December, and was trained at Camp Peary, Virginia.

C. W. Harp.

The son of Mrs. Willie Harp, of 1654 Virginia place, Harp was formerly employed by the York Exterminating Company. He also taught in the intermediate department of the Grant Park Baptist church for 14 years. His wife is living at 593 Cameron street.

Two brothers are also in the Navy. E. L. Harp Jr., a chief petty officer, is serving at sea, and Frank Harp is stationed at Gainesville, Ga.

LUTHER T. WOOTAN WINS BOMBARDIER RATING

Second Lieutenant Luther T. Wootan, of 701 Brookline street, recently won his rating as bombardier at the Army Air Forces Bombardier school, Victorville, Cal.

Lieutenant Wootan

Lieutenant Wootan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wootan, of Atlanta, is a graduate of Boys' High school and the Georgia Evening College. He entered the air force in March, 1942.

His brother, J. D. Wootan Jr., also is in the service, stationed at Vancouver, Wash.

Graham Gives $10,000 To Aid Boys and Girls

A gift of $10,000 in cash to establish a foundation to aid worthy Baptist orphaned boys and girls to a successful life was presented a group of church leaders at a luncheon at the Biltmore hotel yesterday by Dr. B. J. W. Graham, veteran Baptist minister and denominational leader in Georgia.

Dr. Graham stipulated in the terms of his gift that trustees of the foundation to be known as the Graham Foundation, should include John H. Hudson, Atlanta attorney; H. W. Stephenson, chairman of the finance committee of the Georgia Baptist Orphans' Home, and Dr. Louie D. Newton, president of the executive board of the Georgia Baptist convention.

Immediately after the luncheon, the trustees named Dr. Newton as first chairman of the foundation, Hudson its attorney and Stephenson, treasurer.

Attending the luncheon were Dr. and Mrs. Graham, Dr. and Mrs. George W. Truett, Dr. and Mrs. Newton, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Wells, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Fortney, Dr James W. Merritt, Dr. O. P. Gilbert, W. D. Barker, Stephenson and Hudson.

Services Mark 100th Birthday Of Cedar Creek Baptist Church

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

ABBEVILLE, Ga., July 6.—When Cedar Creek Baptist church held its centennial celebration Sunday, the descendants or relatives of persons closely identified with the history of the institution gathered there from all over the county and the state.

The Rev. J. B. Pate, of Amboy, a pastor of the church from 1926-1938, gave the history; the Rev. Ben Rainey, of Empire, pastor from 1921-1926, rendered the devotional; while the Rev. Joe Jenkins, a former pastor in 1915, now president of Georgia Military College at Milledgeville, delivered the main address. In charge of the services is the pastor, the Rev. J. M. Kirkland, of Pineview.

The church, eight miles north of Abbeville on the Dixie highway, was first a log church, built by slaves under the supervision of George F. McLeod. It was constituted in December 27, 1843, and was organized by James H. Reeves and David Ryals. The deacons at the time were C. W. Ashley and E. B. Mixon. The first pastor called was the Rev. H. C. Hornady, who later became one of the leading ministers of the state, and who was pastor of the First Baptist church in Atlanta for a number of years. During the 100 years of the church's existence it has had 31 pastors, with not one year's lapse. The clerks have been C. W. Ashley, Phelet Doster, who served 11 years; John B. Mitchell, serving 40 years, and the present clerk, Walter Sapp, he having served 17 successive years.

Members at the time of the church's organization consisted of many of the pioneer settlers of the county: Ashleys, Bruces, Connors, Cohens, Dosters, Dennards, Futches, Grahams, Hobbs, Harveys, Johnsons, Manns, Mitchells, McAnnallys, McCalls, McDuffies, McLeads, Nasworths, Popes, Rhodes, Stathams, Waldens, Wilsons and the Woottens.

The presen church is the third one built, the former ones having been torn down and rebuilt into larger buildings.

Upper Piedmont Area Weevil Damage Bared

GRIFFIN, July 6.—(AP)—Boll weevil damage apparently is heaviest in the upper Piedmont area where cotton has not been fruiting long, the State Experiment Station here said today on the basis of reports from 72 farms in 40 middle and north Georgia counties.

Twelve farms reported no boll weevils, but on 32 farms over 10 per cent of the squares were punctured.

The experiment station said a rapid increase in weevils is likely now because of recent rains and added that it is time for farmers to begin dusting in middle Georgia. Dusting along the fall line already has started, the report said.

Defense Plants Buying Gilmer County Lumber

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

ELLIJAY, Ga., July 6.—Many carloads of hardwood lumber are moving out of Gilmer county each week to defense plants.

Gilmer is one of the richest counties in the nation in timber, and an organized fire prevention and control group is headed by H. E. Pinson, president of Shippen Hardwood Lumber Company, and several plants are engaged in production of lumber.

Thomasville Delegation Attends Spence Fete

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 6.—Large numbers of people went from this city Sunday afternoon to join the other thousands to attend the open house at Spence Field, at which all 17-year-olders were guests of honor. Trucks came here to transport the youngsters, of which there were 42.

At the field visitors were shown the inner workings of flight training, were allowed to inspect Flying Fortresses, P-40's and many different types of planes, were given an aerial show and an address of welcome by the commanding officer.

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—Attention of financial markets was centered on soaring commodities today and, while selected stocks put up a strong showing, the majority made little if any headway.

In the stock division, utilities, air transports and specialties held the buying play throughout and new highs for the year or longer were widely distributed. Other groups, however, failed to make the grade and minus marks were plentiful at the close. Initial advances among favorites running to 2 points also were reduced in the final hour.

Some rails and utilities extended their early gains in the bond market today and toward the close held advances that ranged to well over a point. Enough scattered selling appeared, however, to give the list a slightly mixed appearance. Losses generally were few and small.

In the curb plus signs were retained by American Gas, Brazilian Traction, Humble Oil, International Petroleum and Phoenix Securities. Among laggards were Electric Bond & Share, Brewster Aero, Republic Aviation and Pantepec. Turnover here was 334,810 shares versus 248,900 last Friday.

Nazi Spies Picked Right Place for Work

These Nazi spies on Staten Island sure picked themselves a place in the middle of things like raisins in a bakery.

Staten Island is in New York Bay between New Jersey and Brooklyn. One spy fellow perched himself in a tree like a fishhawk and spotted everything that went past.

You can go further with the comparison because a fishhawk kills the tree it nests in.

Now, there's two turnips they should send on my famous sightseeing tour through a sawmill astraddle a big log.

They sure got the goods on them like oldtime door-to-door pack peddlers. Now let's have them play a nice game of blind man's buff on the edge of the Grand Canyon.

VERSATILE ALTHAEA.

ABBEVILLE, Ga., July 6.—The rose garden of Mrs. L. J. Whitehurst has become the regular show place of Abbeville. A large althaea bush, literally covered in gorgeous lavender flowers, is sending out a striking contrast with another limb of beautiful pure white flowers. Every year this particular bush has a limb of white flowers, but this year it is more pronounced than ever before.

SNAKE BITES MILLER.

ABBEVILLE, Ga., July 6.—U. S. Keen, local miller, is recovering from a snakebite he received while preparing corn for his mill. Keen was bitten by the snake which had concealed itself in a pile of corn in the mill house. The snake was not captured and it is not known what kind of snake struck Keen.

Another Plan For Employment Of Veterans

Sheldon Uttal, of New York, discharged from the service for disability last March, agrees with me that our most serious post-war problem on the home front will be the employment of the veterans. In fact he thinks the problem has already developed to some extent.

He says:

"While it is true that veterans coming home now, unless they are permanently crippled, are getting their old jobs back—or better ones if they desire—this situation will not hold after the war. Men who have been in the service a couple of years and who go back to their old jobs, do not last long.

"While the law will be enforced now as to service men getting their old jobs back, it cannot be enforced to keep the employe in that job. After all, a veteran of a few years cannot be expected to step right back into the swing of things and do his job as well as before the war. The result of this is that he is let go after a few months. This is not a common occurrence but can be viewed with alarm as regards the future.

"Worse yet is the fact that many men have come out with definite statements to the effect that they don't want their old employes. In my work I have many occasions to talk to people high up in business. When I hear what they have to say I realize that the veteran coming home a few years from now is going to be very disappointed. He is going to find the same situation as existed after the last war in spite of any laws for his protection.

"Of course," Mr. Uttal adds, "these businessmen do not say this publicly, but get them in an unguarded moment and you will be amazed. If this return is not worked out right it can result in a greater tragedy for the country than the war itself. It is possible for the whole economic structure to collapse. All this may sound very pessimistic but from a hard-headed point of view it is very possible."

Well, I cannot share the gentlemen's gloomy forebodings as to the possibility of revolution under any circumstances. But in the absence of any set and solid plans for the protection of the veterans, I must continue to maintain a slightly bilious view of their future. Until I see definite legislations and a definite program in their behalf, I fear they will be in no better case after the war than the veterans of '17.

My correspondent confesses that he does not have the complete answer to the problem but suggests that the government set up a board immediately to seek practical solution. He thinks the board should be composed of officers of the regular Army, labor officials, businessmen and members of the American Legion, and that it should have a plan of operation ready for the end of the war.

He also thinks that the discharges should be staggered over the period of at least a year, keeping those men who are financially independent and those who are assured of jobs longer than the rest, though it seems to me the practicability of this idea is open to question. I feel that it would be an injustice to keep men in the service after their job is done regardless of their circumstances, unless they wish to remain in. I feel that my idea of extending the pay of the men to cover at least a year after discharge would be more acceptable. It would give them the opportunity of adjusting themselves to civil life at their convenience.

Atlantans Visit Their Son In Historic Gettysburg Home

By SALLY FORTH.

• • • FRIENDS OF Mr. and Mrs. Harvie Jordan, who know how very much they love history, will appreciate the thrill they experienced last week upon arriving in Gettysburg, Pa., to learn a romantic incident connected with the home their son, Ervin, and his wife have recently acquired.

The grounds around the house border the northeastern corner of the field of Gettysburg, where one of the greatest battles was ever fought on American soil. On July 1, 1863, Georgia's General John B. Gordon, with his command, met the Union forces in this very neighborhood.

Riding forward with his successful advancing lines, General Gordon discovered a Federal officer of high rank among the dead and dying. He dismounted and from his canteen gave water to Major General Francis C. Barlow, of New York. Soldiers were directed to place General Barlow upon a litter and carry him to the red brick house near by, which is the very house where Mr. and Mrs. Jordan are visiting.

General Gordon learned that Mrs. Barlow was with the Union army near the battlefield, and, under a flag of truce, sent her the message that she should have safe escort to her husband's side.

General Barlow recovered and met Gordon again during his second term in the U. S. senate. The friendship between these brave men, born amidst the thunders of Gettysburg, was cherished by both.

Before returning home, Mr. and Mrs. Jordan will visit another son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jordan, in Media, Pa., near Philadelphia.

Mrs. James Otey Burke poses with her adorable young son, James O. Burke Jr. They are residing with Mrs. Burke's mother, Mrs. Henry W. Davis, at the Biltmore apartments for the duration. Captain Burke, U. S. Army Medical Corps, is on duty in North Africa.

• • • DESPITE the fact that the war has made many changes in Charleston, the historic old city still retains much of its southern antebellum charm. The modern homes, the specially and recently constructed dwellings for war workers, have not overshadowed the beauty nor the charm of the city's oldest homes where, in many instances, the latch string is on the outside for the wartime resident. Every available space has been put into residential use because of the crowded conditions in the South Carolina city.

A case in point is the wartime home of those popular Atlantans, Lieutenant William Glenn, U. S. N. R., and his wife, the lovely June Spalding. Anne Atkins (Mrs. Thomas Jr.) Meador was the recent guest of Billy and June, and was entranced with their home, which is a remodeled carriage house! The house, enclosed by a high brick wall, stands in the rear yard of an old home on Charleston's famous Broad street, and is two stories high. What was once a double door for the carriages to enter the stable has been made into an arched window and a side door. On the lower floor, a winding stairway leads to the upstairs bedrooms. An entrancing garden surrounds the home, and passers-by get a glimpse of it through an old wooden gate which swings from the high brick wall.

• • • TWO POPULAR Atlanta sub-debs, Ann Joiner and Marilyn McClung, left last week for Tallulah Falls, where they again are attending Camp Chattooga for Girls. They were on hand to help celebrate the camp's tenth anniversary at the gala birthday party with which the season opened. Ann is the daughter of Mrs. Edward Joiner and Marilyn is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Roy McClung.

Both belles are seasoned and experienced campers and for this reason, and because they are always great favorites with younger campers, they have been chosen as assistants to the counselors. This is quite an honor and one over which Ann and Marilyn are both thrilled.

One of the special features at Chattooga in which Marilyn is particularly interested is horseback riding. Not only does she like to put her mount through its paces in the camp's fine riding ring, but she especially enjoys exploring the woodland trails around Tallulah Falls. Incidentally, riding is under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Stepp, who showed so successfully in the recent Fulton-DeKalb Horse Show.

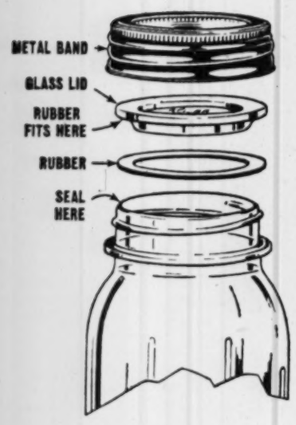
IMPORTANT NOTICE

TO HOME CANNERS

The Glass Top Seal Fruit Jar Cap for Home Canning was developed as a Wartime product to conserve metal. It consists of a Metal Band, Glass Lid and Rubber Ring.

Because of the difference in the nature of these three materials this Cap must be used differently from any other fruit jar cap. If used properly it will give excellent results. If not used properly, results will be bad, including failure to seal and breakage of jars. Following are simple instructions for use of the Glass Top Seal Cap and must be followed carefully.



1. Do NOT use in Oven Canning.
2. If processing, (cooking in jar), leave 1 inch space in top of jar. If using open kettle, leave ½ inch space in top of jar.
3. Fit rubber around projection on bottom side of lid.
4. Place lid so rubber lies between lid and top edge of jar.
5. Turn bands tight, then loosen slightly (about ¼ turn). Bands must fit loosely during processing (cooking). This is Important and must be done to insure best results. If using Open Kettle, screw bands tight as soon as jar is filled.
6. After processing, screw bands tight to complete seal. Remove bands 12 hours after canning.

DO NOT TURN FILLED JARS UPSIDE DOWN

Miss Wynne Becomes Bride Of Mr. Van Buren at Church

Miss Virginia Claire Wynne and Martin Van Buren were married last evening at the Hapeville Methodist church in the presence of a limited number of friends of the bridal couple.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman F. Wynne, of Hapeville, and Mr. Van Buren is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Van Buren, of Columbus, Ohio.

Rev. L. B. Jones officiated and music was presented by Mrs. C. E. Beaumont, organist, and Mrs. Leon Harrison, soloist. Palms and ferns formed a background for an arrangement of white gladioli and white tapers on the altar.

Robert Harriss and Andrew Duus were the ushers and William Sandhagen was the best man. Mrs. C. E. Cruze Jr. was the matron of honor and was gowned in a model of dusty pink crepe worn with white accessories. Her flowers were gardenias.

The bride, a lovely brunette, was given in marriage by her father. She was becomingly gowned in sheed Madonna blue crepe trimmed in rhinestone buttons. Her white halo hat was trimmed with a white veil and her accessories were white. Her only ornament was an amethyst and pearl lavalliere which was a wedding present from the bride's father to her mother. She carried a white prayer book and wore a shoulder spray of purple-throated orchids.

By Louella O Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 6.—(INS) John Halliday, who commuted in peacetime from Honolulu to Hollywood for his movie roles, is coming back in wartime. When Columbia asked him to play the role of the publisher in "Cover Girls" he said it all depended upon how soon they needed him. He has been touring the various islands playing "Spring Time for Henry," and he wanted to finish his camp tour first.

The shooting schedule was rearranged to give him the chance. John is the only Hollywood actor living in Honolulu. The Halliday's live on a ranch facing the ocean and when the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor he had a bird's-eye view of the disaster. He will play the man who gives Rita Hayworth her first break, and it's safe to predict he will be good, because he is a swell actor.

As soon as the galley proofs reached Hollywood "The Tree Grows in Brooklyn," Ethel Smith's first book, came in for some strong competitive bidding. Joseph Schenck's snap offer of plenty of cash was accepted while a few of the other boys were making up their minds. While no definite casting will be done until Daryl Zanuck returns to the studio tomorrow, I have a hunch it will star Alice Faye, who is a Brooklyn gal herself. The story is that of an American family who live in Brooklyn but whose grandparents come from Austria.

The latest Hollywood biography is that of Oliver Hardy and Stan Laurel. They are writing a book very appropriately titled "Through Thick and Thin." They alternate in writing chapters, which sounds a little confusing. But, perhaps, that's the way a book written by Mr. Fat and Mr. Thin should be. They'll mention all of their leading ladies, and they have quite a bevy, what with the late Jean Harlow, Paulette Goddard, Janet Gaynor, Lupe Velez and their latest, Trudy Marshall, who is in "Dancing Masters" with them.

Chatter in Hollywood: Doris Dudley is torn between her love of the stage and her duty to her child, Jackie Jenkins. Doris has been offered the role in Noel Coward's play, "Blithe Spirit," created by Lenore Corbett, and it is a wonderful chance for her. She hasn't been on the stage since she was with John Barrymore in "My Dear Children," but there is a little matter of Young Butch, who is under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and who is one of their most important players. Butch is now in "America," and Doris figures the only way she can take the "Blithe Spirit" role is if he gets time off between pictures.

Snapshots of Hollywood Collected at Random: Mary Parker and Bill Daniels have split as a dance team and she will concentrate on movies; Irene Dunne and Dr. Griffin celebrate their 15th wedding anniversary the 16th of July. Who says there are no happy marriages in Hollywood? Claudette Colbert, who spent most of the time while she was in New York in the hospital, is back home; Curt Siodmak, writer of the Hollywood horror movies, has just sold a children's story called "The Story of Anatol, the Mule;" Dickie Jones and his Ma have gone to New York to discuss a stage offer made him; Diane Meredith, Gloria Vanderbilt's protege, has been given an M-G-M acting contract. Speaking of Mrs. Vanderbilt, she says Gloria Jr. told her there is no stork expected in the Di Cicco menage; a bomber plant pilot in London writes Eddie Robinson his squadron have named their ship "Tropicana." When he finishes he goes to Mexico to be starred in the story of his own life for Alberto Pani.

INEZ ROBB'S FOOD SURVEY SHOWS:

"Civilian Population Will Eat 75 to 80% of 1943 Food Crop"

This is the third article in a series of four by Inez Robb, of International News Service, discussing the nation's wartime food problem

By INEZ ROBB.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(INS) The official in the War Food Administration put the situation bluntly:

"The biggest hog in the trough is the civilian consumer."

And, indeed, he is. Despite the demands of the Army, of lend-lease and auxiliary services, the civilian consumer—and that's you and me—is in the trough with all four feet.

In 1942, when the nation produced the biggest and best crops in its history—when it topped the 1941 bumper crop record by a breath-taking 12 per cent increase—the civilian population consumed 85 per cent of that tremendous production. The Army and lend-lease got slightly less than 15 per cent of the total output—or only 3 per cent more than the record-breaking crop of 1941.

This year the civilian population will eat between 75 and 80 per cent of a total crop yield which is now expected to equal that of record-breaking 1942, with the 1943 crop decreases balanced by the 1943 bumper livestock production.

The Office of War Food Administration no less than the Department of Agriculture wishes the public would understand once and for all that it does not eat what is "left" after the Army and lend-lease requirements are filled.

Civilian food needs are calculated in advance, just as are military needs. They are presented and considered on the same basis.

Any civilian who feels sorry for himself because he is eating the "leavin's," can dry his tears at once. His demands are of primary consideration in national food allotments.

What the vast majority of us civilians do not understand—something of which I had no inkling until I delved into the files—is that the people of the United States have been on a huge bender since 1939. If the bender had been alcoholic instead of food, we could not have a worse collective headache than at the moment.

In 1939, as prosperity from "defense" industries began to spread over the land, the United States harvested the biggest crops in its history. This land of plenty, this nation of milk and honey, literally turned itself into a horn of plenty in 1939.

But there was increased purchasing power, and instead of a staggering surplus of food, as might have been expected, we ate every last crumb of it. The fabled one-third of the nation that was allegedly ill-housed, ill-clothed and ill-fed, was at least eating better.

HIT JACKPOT IN 1940

Then again in 1940, we hit the jackpot. The 1940 harvest topped even the record-breaker that was 1939. Again, with more "defense" money in its jeans and with a nation beginning to get under arms through selective service, we had no surplus food. The nation was eating more and better than ever before in its history.

Incredible as it may seem, we hit the jackpot again in 1941. The harvests were honeys, they were lulus, they were immense. But with war forced on us on December 7 of that year and with war plants booming we ate the huge harvest down to the nubbin.

If nature had smiled on us in 1939, '40 and '41, she laughed out loud in 1942. The United States harvested such a crop as she had never dreamed possible before. It topped by an incredible 12 per cent the record-breaking crop of 1941. And we ate all of it, too, until rationing finally came to pass in this rich land.

After four record-breaking, bumper crops in the past four years, the fact that the 1943 harvest will be about "normal" for the period prior to 1939 looms as a tragedy in the minds of those who are not acquainted with the facts. From 1939 through 1941, the American people were on an unprecedented food bender.

There is no doubt that so far as purchasing power is concerned, there is better food distribution in this country than ever before. In other words, more people are able to buy the good and decent necessities of diet. This is what officials of the War Food Administration mean when they say that there is better food distribution in the nation than ever before and what they mean when they insist there is no real but only an apparent food shortage.

BIGGER DEMAND FOR CREAM

It means that the one-time very low income groups now have enough money to demand some of the cream, too, and that there is not enough cream to go around.

An authority in the War Food Administration said he was worried not "about production but about the number of citizens who will want and demand better food."

"There are no more people in the country than before," this man continued, "and there is a great deal more food than ever before (based on 1931-1939 averages.)"

One indication of the all-over distribution of food through purchasing power is the fact that during the coming year civilians are expected to get only nine per cent less than they consumed through the five-year period of 1935 through 1939. Yet it will be necessary to continue to ration meat on its present basis.

Although normally there would be enough potatoes for everyone, on the basis of present crop predictions, a shortage in spuds may develop again through the medium of the nation's increased purchasing power.

A statistician in the War Food Administration figured that American consumers in 1943, based on psychological wants and record purchasing power, would like to buy at least 160 pounds of meat per capita. The War Food Administration cannot allocate more than 124 pounds per capita. Consumers will get 46 pounds of food fats, including butter, instead of the 55 they would like. They will get 5.7 pounds of cheese per capita instead of the seven for which they hanker.

Vitamins and Physical Fitness.

Do you recommend any particular vitamin or vitamins to make a person keep fit? (M. L.)

Answer—No. I believe most growing children, youths and young adults in the United States need a daily ration of vitamin B-complex and vitamin D to supplement the ordinary diet. Tests made in England by Harper and associates (British Medical Journal, February 27, 1943) indicated that young people receiving such vitamin supplements were less susceptible to cri and to gastro-intestinal troubles, had greater increase in resting vital capacity and breathholding and endurance and faster pulse than control group who received no supplementary vitamins.

MY DAY: Jan Struther's Poem Enjoyed

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK, Monday, July 5.—We have had a very pleasant weekend. A number of children to keep us busy. Our son Jimmy and his wife were with me at the cottage and, with the exception of yesterday, we had sun in which to bask after we swam. Yet it was cool enough weather so that I did an unprecedented thing—I had a fire in the fireplace in my sitting room and we sat close to it and enjoyed it.

On Saturday we had a picnic lunch and even at noon the sun did not seem too hot to make it pleasant. My old friend, Mr. Earl Robinson, who is on his way to Los Angeles, spent one night with us and gave a concert in the library in which the soldiers who were able to get away from their duties joined. I think they had a very happy hour listening to him and singing with him.

We have actually been reading some poetry aloud at odd moments, and that is always a joy. Jan Struther has written a new poem called "War Time Journey." It may not as yet have been published. It was to me a most moving and sensitive piece of writing and I was interested to find Earl Robinson at once putting it to music in his mind, for he asked me if someone had written the music to it. It expresses the kind of emotion that one can think of in terms of sound or painting.

I was saddened yesterday to find that the National Youth Administration is going to be closed down. I am not, of course, particularly troubled about the effect this will have on youth at present. I have felt all along that youth not called into the service could, of course, go into industry and get its training there. It seemed to me, however, that much training could be given by NYA which would make young people more useful when hired and therefore less costly in industry. The training given by NYA was basic, not specialized, as often must be in industry and, therefore, it is more valuable for future use if you have to change your job.

The main reason, however, that I am sorry to see NYA go is that I have learned how difficult it is to train people to do certain kinds of work and set up organizations to accomplish definite objectives. It seems to me highly improbable that in the transition period between war and peace we will not need an organization such as this to help our young people to prepare for new jobs. We did not have it in the past, but we have learned a great deal, and I thought perhaps we could profit by our past.

The cost to the country has seemed very small. Perhaps we could even put it on the credit side, if it has been possible to compute how much this training really helped in using workers more quickly.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Chirologist

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—You may have something unusual and favorable occur. Benefits may be obtained from governmental matters, or dealings with governmental people.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—General business and domestic affairs should progress smoothly, and many people born at this time may have a pleasure of having their ships come in.

May 21-June 20 (Gemini)—Today favors work of a quiet nature, but if necessity brings you in touch with the public or before groups of people, you may have to bring your tact strongly to the surface.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—Give unusual care to new beginnings, they are likely to appear better at first glance than you will find if you get into them.

July 23-August 22 (LEO)—You can get down to hard work or tackle people who are hard-boiled now, for you seem to know the correct approach. However, feelings of ease you may have today can degenerate into laziness, so watch out.

August 23-September 22 (VIRGO)—Plan to be deliberate, and do not allow your emotions too much play. After 10:32 a. m. is more favorable for reaching agreements.

September 23-October 22 (LIBRA)—Plans and work that involve large groups or many groups are favored today, but this is a most inauspicious day for anything of a selfish nature.

October 23-November 21 (SCORPIO)—Dealings with loved ones, travel, social affairs are favored today. However, if you are planning on putting your name on the "dotted line," either give it much consideration, or consult expert advice.

November 23-December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—Substantial ideas, land transactions, dealings with older people, and those things that require time to complete are favored today.

December 22-January 19 (CAPRICORN)—This will be a favorable day to attend to matters of a progressive nature, but is a time to be cautious around liquids, chemicals, drugs. Dealings with women should prove profitable.

January 20-February 18 (AQUARIUS)—A feeling of expansiveness permeates you today, and you may place too many irons in the fire. Such feelings are favorable for social dealings, or for putting over affairs that demand tact.

February 19-March 20 (PISCES)—Understanding seems to surround you, so work that demands good should meet with a ready response. Dealings with both sexes are able to make progress and important deals may be inaugurated with good results.

Marriage of Miss Branyon To Carey Letz Jr. Announced

Mrs. Pauline O. Branyon announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Nancy Pauline Branyon, to Carey A. Letz Jr., U. S. N. R., of Jonesboro, Ga., and Alameda, Cal., the marriage having taken place on June 12, 1942, in Marietta.

Mrs. Letz is the only daughter of Mrs. Branyon and the late Bemis O. Branyon. Her maternal grandparents are the late Robert S. and Nancy Jones Ozburn, who were numbered among the first citizens of Clayton county and Atlanta. The late John T. and Elvira Shirley Branyon, her paternal grandparents, were among the pioneer families of Jackson county.

The bride, a lovely blonde, is a graduate of Washington Seminary, and received her bachelor of arts degree in journalism at the University of Georgia where she was on the staff of the Georgia Arch, campus magazine; the women's rifle squad, and an active member of Alpha Gamma Delta fraternity. She is now employed in the Signal Branch, Headquarters, Fourth Service Command.

Petty Officer Letz is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Carey Allen Letz Sr., of Jonesboro, formerly of Jamestown, N. Y. He is the grandson of Dr. Anna Brown and the late Dr. Robert J. Brown, of Alexandria Bay, N. Y. His paternal grandparents are the late DeForest and Ella R. Brown Letz, of Vellois, N. Y. On his maternal side he is the great-grandson of Richard and Elmira Pressley New, of Pearly, England, and of George and Catherine Newman Brown, of Kingston, Ont. George Brown was one of the founders of better government in Canada, and since then, his grandchildren have been granted scholarships to Queen's College in Kingston, Ontario.

After graduating from Jonesboro High school, Petty Officer Letz attended the University of Georgia. He entered the Navy in June, 1942, receiving his boot training in Norfolk, Va. He was later transferred to the Naval Air Station in Memphis, Tenn., and afterwards to LaGuardia Field in New York city where he completed his studies for flight engineers with a grade of 100 per cent, the only person to make a perfect score since the course has been established. He is now stationed in Alameda, Cal., where he will receive his commission in August.

Mrs. Letz has been making her home with her mother in the home built in Clayton county by her great-grandfather, the late Edward L. Jones, for whom Jones street in Atlanta (now Woodward avenue) and Jones Chapel, near Forest Park, Ga., were named. She will leave for Alameda within a few days to join her husband.

Bride's Father Reads Service For Jones-Traver Marriage

Rev. Herman Cole Jones read the marriage service for his daughter, Miss Edith Hatton Jones, when she became the bride of Lieutenant W. Allen Traver Jr. at a beautiful ceremony solemnized at 6 p. m. on Saturday at the little chapel of Glenn Memorial church. A company of friends and relatives gathered to witness the ceremony, which was preceded by a musical program presented by Miss Evelyn Hogue.

The chapel altar was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and baby's breath and flanked on either side by floor standards topped with bouquets of similar flowers. Tall white tapers burned in cathedral candelabra among the screen of palms which massed the rear of the pulpit.

C. Ralph Ewing and Carroll Blomgren served as ushers, and W. Allen Traver Sr. was best man for his son.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her uncle, William Cole Jones, and Miss Judy Mozley was her maid of honor and only attendant. Miss Mozley wore a picturesque gown of apple green marquisette fashioned with a deep lace bertha and a wide bouffant skirt. She wore Shasta daisies in her hair and carried a bouquet of Shasta daisies.

Filmy white marquisette fashioned the bride's gown, which featured a fitted bodice, a yoke formed of narrow lace ruffles, and a bouffant skirt which extended in the back to form a long train. Her veil of illusion tulle fell from a becoming coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a white prayer book made by her father and caught with a cluster of gardenias.

Following the chapel ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Cole Jones, at 111 Lamont drive, Decatur. Mrs. W. Allen Traver chose for her son's marriage a gown of crystal gray crepe which was offset with a cluster of orchids. The bride's sister, Mrs. Rabun E. Johnston, of Coral Gables, Fla., wore pearl crepe and a spray of orchids.

For her wedding trip, Mrs. Traver chose a navy ensemble which she wore with navy and white accessories. Upon their return the couple will reside in Winston-Salem, N. C.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ewing, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Blomgren, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Windle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Strahley, all of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Pheteplace, Greenville, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. W. Allen Traver Sr., Miss Shirley Traver, Barrington, R. I.; Mrs. R. E. Johnston, Coral Gables, Fla.

Miss Louise Ray Betrothed To Lt. William F. Nee, A. A. C.

FAIRBURN, Ga., July 6.—Mrs. I. N. Ray, of Fairburn, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Louise Ray, to Lieutenant William F. Nee, Army Air Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Nee, of Arnold, Pa.

Miss Ray received her bachelor of science degree in secretarial training from the Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville in June, 1941. While a student there she took a leading part in college government activities, was a member of the student council, honor board and a senior class officer. During her senior year she was elected as a member of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." After graduation she was employed as a member of the office personnel in the college for a year. At present she is secretary to Ralph L. Ramsey, secretary of the Georgia Education Association, in Atlanta.

Lieutenant Nee attended Mercer University in Macon, where he was an outstanding football player and high scoring basketball star, a member of the Mercer Athletic Society and the Kappa Sigma fraternity. He entered the air corps in June, 1942, and received his cadet training at Maxwell field, Orangeburg, and Gunter field. In May of this year he received his pilot's wings at Blytheville, Ark. At present he is stationed at Hendricks field, a Flying Fortress school at Sebring, Fla.

The marriage of this popular couple will take place the latter part of July at the Hendricks field chapel with the Rev. Father A. B. McDonald performing the ceremony. The bride-elect's only attendant will be Miss Kathryn King and the groom-elect's best man will be Lieutenant John Tansey. Officers of Lieutenant Lee's squadron will attend the wedding.

Miss Sigrid Miller Becomes Bride of Sgt. P. W. Briscoe

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Nils Miller of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Sigrid Astrid Miller, to Staff Sergeant Pierce Wesley Briscoe, first battalion sergeant-major, son of Mrs. Lois Dobbs Briscoe, the ceremony having taken place Thursday, June 10, in a military wedding performed at the 406th Infantry chapel, Camp Maxey, Texas.

Chaplain A. B. Giltnen officiated and the bride was given in marriage by Lieutenant John Cwajkowski, commanding officer of headqaurters company. Sergeant William Ryder acted as best man. The lovely bride wore a becoming dress of gray crepe, with accessories of navy blue. She wore a single strand of pearls, and a cluster of gardenias completed her wedding costume.

A guard of honor preceded the bride and Lieutenant Cwajkowski down the aisle and stood at attention while the marriage vows were taken. After the ceremony the guard of honor formed an arch of rifles with fixed bayonets under which the bride and groom walked out of the chapel.

Mrs. Briscoe is an elder daughter, her sister being Miss Alice Svea Miller. Her only brother is Harold Nils Miller. Her mother is the former Miss Astrid Sophia Carlson, of Kalmar, Sweden. Her maternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs Carl Carlson. Christian Miller and the late Mrs. Miller, of Vaxjo, Sweden, are the bride's paternal grandparents.

The bride attended Druid Hills High school, and upon graduation attended the Georgia State College for Women and the University of Georgia. Before her marriage she held a position with the Georgia Power Company of Atlanta.

Sergeant Briscoe is the only child of Mrs. Lois D. Briscoe, now of Atlanta, and the late Pierce Wesley Briscoe, of Richmond, Va. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Otis D. Briscoe, of Walton county, and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dobbs, of Athens. He is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Newman, of Atlanta, with whom he has made his home for the past three years.

The bridegroom graduated from Highland Springs High school, Richmond, Va., and attended the Georgia Evening College in Atlanta, where he took active part in the Glee Club and student activities He was also a member of the choir of the Peachtree Christian church. At the time he was called into the service of his country he was employed by the Georgia Power Company.

MRS. PIERCE W. BRISCOE.

Wallace-Jones Feud Shunned By Lawmakers

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—A Republican proposal for a house inquiry into the dispute between Vice President Wallace and Secretary of Commerce Jones was pigeon-holed today by the House Rules Committee.

Chairman Sabath, Democrat, Illinois, said the group decided against reporting it to the house because a majority "felt that efforts are being made to straighten out matters within the administration." He did not diselose the committee's vote.

Representative Wigglesworth, Republican, Massachusetts, is the author of the resolution.

Still pending on the senate side is a similar resolution by Senator Bridges, Republican, New Hampshire. Democratic leaders in the senate, however, have indicated they have no disposition to encourage an inquiry.

One member of the Rules Committee, Representative Colmer, Democrat, Mississippi, expanding on Sabath's statement, suggested that the senate could undertake an inquiry with more propriety than the house since Wallace is the presiding officer of the senate.

Colmer said that in his opinion "the President himself should forthwith settle the row."

The general feeling among other legislators appeared to be that only the President could settle the dispute.

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes attempted the role of peace-maker last week, calling the two men to the White House for a conference, but afterward the exchange of charges and countercharges only grew more heated.

In the latest, Jones asserted last night that Wallace's statements about the Reconstruction Finance Corporation were full of "malice, innuendo, half-truths and no truths at all." As for Wallace's Board of Economic Warfare, Jones declared it had resorted to "methods bordering on the hysterical" without getting results in imports of strategical materials.

Wallace was out of town, but Milo Perkins, BEW's executive director, replied that Jones was simply throwing up a "smoke screen."

Truck Wrecks, Moultrie Boys Dam Gasoline

MOULTRIE, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—Two small boys, using a hoe and a shovel, threw up a dam and held in check 2,000 gallons of gasoline pouring from a gasoline truck that left the highway and rolled into a ditch near here. More than 100 motorists filled buckets, lard cans and other containers with the rationed fluid.

The truck, owned by a Tallahassee (Fla.) oil company, carried 4,000 gallons of gas. A relief truck was sent from Tallahassee to pump out gasoline remaining in the overturned truck.

Penalty Is Set For Absenteeism

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 6.—(AP) The War Manpower's Labor Management Committee has recommended that any employe discharged because of absenteeism be refused referral by the U. S. Employment Service or labor unions to other jobs for at least 15 days.

Harvey Enloe Jr., area director of the WMC, said the recommendation had been approved by the WMC and instructions to comply with it have been passed on to the employment office.

Enloe said the two largest labor organizations and management had agreed on the plan in order to speed war production. The rate of absenteeism is so high now, Enloe said, that production is being retarded.

Under the procedure referral will be withheld for a minimum of 15 and a maximum of 30 days.

Corn Refining Industry Gets Two Weeks' Supply

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—The corn refining industry got temporary relief today with a fresh two weeks' supply of corn requisitioned from country elevators by the government, but industry spokesmen said a permanent solution must be found if the refineries are to be kept operating steadily until the new crop is available.

Morris, Sayre, executive vice president, said the Corn Products Refining Company's big plant at Pekin, Ill., was re-opened today after a two weeks' shutdown, after the War Food Administration had requisitioned enough corn for a five days' grind and that it appeared probable the refinery could continue operation for another two weeks.

Men, Women At Tattnall Now Are Separated

Men and women prisoners have been completely separated at Tattnall, and segregation of first offenders from habitual criminals is well underway, Prison Commission Chairman Clem Rainey said yesterday in a report to Governor Arnall that showed many improvements in this former prison cesspool.

Rainey said Georgia's prison population is at its lowest point in many years. Wardens of many county prison camps are urgently pleading for more prisoners to do road work. The prison population has dropped 2,500 in the past three years, and now totals only 5,800. There are 1,250 at Tattnall.

A "receiving center" to segregate prison newcomers on arrival is being established at Tattnall, Rainey said, and should be in full operation by the September term of courts.

Separation of men and women prisoners at Tattnall, exposed recently as a prison love nest, is now so complete that a separate dental clinic has been established in the women's division, Rainey asserted.

All State Troopers placed at Tattnall during the probe that followed the mass escape recently have been replaced with trained prison personnel, Rainey continued. Eighty-three guards have been employed. Prisoners no longer man the communications systems.

A venereal clinic has been set up.

Other improvements include building two basketball shells for women, tennis courts, baseball diamond, organizing a prison band, bringing a full-time chaplain to Tattnall, subscribing for newspapers and periodicals, and moving the woodwork shop from Milledgeville to Tattnall.

Problems of a 'Boom Town' Keep Marietta Mayor Busy

The Constitution's Marietta News Bureau
By CLARA JEAN JONES.

MARIETTA, Ga., July 6.—You might expect the mayor of a city which anticipates doubling its population within the space of one short year, come December, to be ready for a good cry.

But there were no tears today around the offices of Mayor Rip Blair. In fact, he was talking on the telephone and laughing when we arrived.

"Just another problem to solve," he said, grinning, as he turned from the phone. "Seems like we have a lot of them."

The subject of the conversation was housing—places to live for workers at the near-by Bell bomber plant.

"No, the situation isn't as bad as some people believe," the mayor explained. "At least, right now we're expecting to have 1,500 new housing units open within the next two months.

Housing Conditions.

"That should take care of housing conditions until fall. Then we hope to have more. The units which will be opened to families in July and August run from one bedroom to three bedrooms in a unit."

Housing units are just one part of the problem, however. There must be schools and other facilities for the newcomers. Recreation places are a distinct part of the new setup for the expanding population.

But right now, as the mayor pointed out, Marietta is wondering what will happen when the schools open.

"We'll take care of the situation in some way," Mayor Blair said, "even if we have to send the children to school in churches or other available buildings.

Mayor Blair skipped from difficulty to difficulty, outlining his plans of taking care of the increased population. The difficulties mostly were wrapped up in red tape or indecision. He simply stated them as facts. His attitude was one of confidence and assurance that the problems would be cleared up as fast as they appeared.

Progressive City.

"We were a progressive city for years—in peacetime there were no dull moments," the mayor added. "We built a recreation center and swimming pool and had the prewar government housing program.

"So it's not so different. Just a little more to figure out and a few more odds and ends to run down.

"We don't know how many people to expect and that causes a few headaches, too. Getting lights, water and sewage facilities for the housing units tops the list. Then comes the building.

"No, I don't know how many people Marietta has now. We're going to take a census some time this fall after things get settled.

"There wouldn't be any use in taking one now. The figures would change before we got through checking them."

Stillman's FRECKLE CREAM

All in the Game

By JACK TROY

A New Start I was chiding Sergeant Ernie Harwell, of the United States Marines, the other evening as he prepared to broadcast a Cracker game. A roofing company was the new sponsor, and, talking of commercials, I said, "Why don't you ask the fans—does your roof leak like the Cracker infield? See the—roofing company."

It was all in fun, of course, but it is nothing to joke about now. I mean the Cracker infield.

Ray Viers is the sensation of the Southern League. He is masterful as the pivot man on a double play. When he wheels and turns a ball loose, the runner had best be no more than two steps away from first or he's a dead duck.

Kid Hartsfield has loosened up and is playing brilliantly. Viers, Hartsfield and Manager Hughes form a devastating double-play combination. They were going at top speed in the second game of the Monday double-header with Memphis. The entire infield participated in five double plays. Rambert was in two or three in the first game and another in the nightcap. When he's on the mound the Crackers have five infielders. He's quite an iron man performer.

Due to an early close—there is an annual holiday for Constitution compositors—I couldn't do the Monday games for the paper, and so consequently readers who didn't see the games may have missed the fact that (1) the Cracker battery won both games; (2) Rambert pitched and batted in the winning run in the first game; (3) Rambert pitched again and Bobby Dews, catching both games, knocked in five runs in the second game; (4) Viers was a remarkable performer as pivot man on double plays; (5) Hartsfield was a ball of fire in the combination; (6) Rambert, winning only four games in the first half, got the Crackers off to a flying start with half as many opening the second half; (7) Pete Gray, sensational one-armed performer for Memphis, made a great diving catch in the first game.

There were other highlights, but these were the main ones in the most dramatic baseball events of the local season. What a change has resulted in the team's play since Hughes has been in charge!

In Hughes' Behalf A caller who followed Hughes in other days reminds us that it is a mistake to say that he managed at Miami Beach.

"He had the club at West Palm Beach, same league," the caller pointed out. "He went there after leaving Waycross under Al Leitz. Harry had a fine team in a league that really is faster than Class D and won the pennant, losing the play-off. He is a fine, smart baseball player. I think we'll do very well with him as manager of the Crackers."

If Roy Hartsfield, who goes after everything in sight, hasn't settled down, it must be an optical illusion. He's supposed to be a little erratic at 17, but in the last few days he has been a combination of Rabbit Maranville and Kid Elberfeld at short.

Kid Hartsfield is the people's choice and I think he might well be as good a shortstop as the Crackers could get.

I never get tired of seeing the youngster perform, no matter what the result of his fielding efforts, because he is after everything hit in his direction, he is a natural hitter and a flash on the bases.

After all, does anyone remember Luke Appling? He made a bushel of errors before leaving Atlanta to join the White Sox. But he also went after everything.

Let's stick with Hartsfield. He isn't very far away from being a star of the game.

'T. W. Barometer' Lieutenant Frank Drake, who is in Navy public relations at the Charleston base, dropped in for a visit over the weekend and related a peach of a story about Tommy Barnes, well-known Atlanta golfer.

Barnes, recently promoted from ensign to lieutenant (jg), is stationed with the inshore patrol.

After standing his usual watch recently, Tommy apparently was in quite a hurry as he left his post.

Upon leaving watch, it is the custom to write the barometer reading in the log.

Barnes jotted down the reading and, as is customary, signed his name.

He signed it—

"T. W. Barometer."

When he returns to civilian life and competitive golf, this cognomen will stick.

For Tommy long had been a barometer of golf activity in the city and the south.

We Never Learn This younger generation is getting pretty quick on the trigger. It was only the other night, seated at a table, that footsteps were heard outside the window.

Janice, six, looked up from her reader and seemed a little disturbed.

"What are those footsteps, Daddy?"

"Oh, it's probably a ghost," I answered flippantly.

Janice stood up, fixed me with a cold eye, and said:

"Listen, Daddy, I am not in the mood for any of your foolishness."

And then—"Mommy, Daddy called you a ghost."

It was Uncle Willie of the comics who said, "Oh, why can't I keep my big mouth shut!"

Braves, All-Stars To Play Monday

BOSTON, July 6.—(AP)—Mayor Maurice Tobin announced today that arrangements had been completed for a game between the Boston Braves and an all-star team of big league and college players new in the armed forces for his annual field day next Monday.

Proceeds of the field day will be devoted as usual to providing food and milk for undernourished children.

The mayor said definite arrangements had been completed to bring "Babe" Ruth to Boston as manager of the service team, the lineup of which would include three stars of last season's Boston Red Sox, Ted Williams and Johnny Pesky, now pre-flight cadets at Chapel Hill, N. C., and Dom DiMaggio, now at the Norfolk Naval Base.

The Coast Guard will contribute Ensign "Babe" Young, former New York Giant; Jim Hegan, former Cleveland catcher, and Gene Hormanski, property of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Service men from Fort Devens who will play include Al Roberge, former Boston Braves infielder; Pitchers Ed Murphy, from Holy Cross and Joe Kwasniewski, of Providence College, and Archie Horne, an infielder from Wesleyan University.

Bivins Best Boxer Still Fighting-Louis

PITTSBURGH, July 6.—(AP)—Jimmy Bivins, of Cleveland, in the eyes of Sergeant Joe Louis, is the best of the heavyweight fighters active today.

But the Negro champion still considers Billy Conn, the handsome Pittsburgher who almost licked him in 1941, as his No. 1 challenger and declares, "he's the first fellow I want to meet when the war's over." He rates 23-year-old Tami Mauriello, of New York, No. 3. Among the men who would like to lift his crown.

Joe looked in perfect fighting trim, despite his 220 pounds, as he climbed into the ring here to referee three rounds of amateur boxing, with more than 10,000 persons lured to the bouts by his magic name.

College All-Stars Add Frank Leahy

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—Frank Leahy, whose University of Notre Dame football teams have been defeated only twice in 20 games, accepted tonight appointment to the coaching staff that will prepare the college all-stars for their game with the Washington Redskins, professional champions, at Dyche Stadium in Evanston, Ill., on the night of August 25.

Leahy's appointment completes the all-star coaching board. The others are Wallace Butts, of Georgia; Babe Harrell, of U. C. L. A., and Lieutenant Tony Hinkle, of Great Lakes. Harry Stuhldreher, of the University of Wisconsin, will be head coach.

Bums Vs. Pirates; Admission Price Is Kitchen Fat

BROOKLYN, July 6.—(AP)—Baseball has had its ladies' days, scrap metal days, charity days and what not. Now it's going to have a kitchen-fat day.

The Brooklyn Dodgers announced today they would admit free any woman who presents a half-pound or more of kitchen fat at the gate Saturday when the Dodgers play Pittsburgh. No provision has been made for the man who shows up with his half-pound or more of fat.

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it," said Ed Staples of the Dodger office.

Army Holding Key to College Football--Weiss

By ERNEST G. WARREN.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Unless the Army quickly reverses its field, and that appeared highly unlikely today, your best bet to see football played this fall is your nearest (by bus or streetcar) high school stadium.

Representative Weiss, Democrat, Pennsylvania, former Duquesne star and professional grid referee, declares that only the Army can save collegiate football by permitting its trainees in schools to participate in intercollegiate games. But apparently the Army does not intend to relax its ban.

A spokesman declared today there is absolutely no change contemplated in the War Department's policy which declares men in the Army specialized training program have no time for intercollegiate sports.

Weiss was admittedly gloomy as to the outlook, but as chairman of an informal committee that has been urging that the War Department allow Army college trainees to get into the game, said he had "discussed that time factor with numerous Army officers and they say the boys could devote an hour or two a day to football without interfering with classroom work."

Officially, however, the Army holds otherwise. While permitting intramural sports, the department stands on an answer given in reply to a question in a student training booklet issued April 1 with a foreword by General Marshall.

Question 46 was: "Will trainees be permitted to engage in intercollegiate sports?"

SPECIFIC DUTIES.

Answer: "No. This is a war. These soldiers are being trained for specific Army duties at Army expense. Successful completion of these courses requires great concentration and effort on the part of the soldier-trainee. The time required for instruction and training and supervised study does not allow sufficient leeway for participation in varsity sports."

But, says Weiss, "what I can't understand is how West Point and Annapolis and Navy Pre-Flight and Navy trainees can play, yet the Army trainees can't, as yet."

To this Army officials here say that what happens at West Point is up to the superintendent. He is in command of the military academy, they say, and the sports program is his to determine.

The Army booklet cites that the weekly schedule of the college-trainees calls for about five hours of military training, six of physical conditioning, a minimum of 24 hours in classes, and a minimum of 24 hours of supervised study. Their day starts with reveille at 6:30 a. m., breakfast at 7 a. m., classes or prescribed study at 8 a. m. to noon, dinner at 12:15 p. m., classes or study 1:20 to 5:20 p. m., supper 6:30 p. m., study 7:30 to 10 p. m., taps 10:30 p. m., with that lineup, declare Army officials, there's not much time to kick the pigskin around and no time to take trips to play games.

The Navy, on the other hand, is a bit more lenient. A spokesman for that service said today that "the object governing the college program is to make it as nearly like normal college life as is consistent with the needs of the service."

INTERPRETATION.

He interpreted this to say that the Navy has placed no ban on participation by its trainees in intercollegiate sports and does not object if the men can find the time outside their studies.

From the senate side of the capitol Senator Mead, Democrat, New York, put in a plug for continuation of spectator sports in general and, in particular, urged that the Army-Navy game be played in a big stadium. He sent identical letters to Undersecretary of War Patterson and Undersecretary of the Navy Forrestal declaring:

"There are several large stadiums aavilable in metropolitan centers, particularly in the east, which could be utilized for this game, without undue strain on transportation facilities or use of gasoline and rubber, thereby affording an opportunity to many thousands of war workers and men and women in our armed forces to obtain healthy, wholesome recreation and relaxation."

Last year, by Presidential edict, the game was held at Annapolis with attendance limited to persons in that immediate area—attendance was estimated at 12,000.

Whether there is a chance that the game may be played in a metropolitan site this year, military officials say, is up to West Point officials. Navy was host last year and it's Army's turn this fall. The game is scheduled for West Point and the Navy spokesman says it will be played there unless the academy decides to change the site.

Rained Out, Crackers To Play Two Tonight

Pete Gray, One-Armed Chick Outfielder, To Give Exhibition Between Games.

By JACK TROY,
Constitution Sports Editor.

Memphis had a one-run lead and the Crackers were going to bat in the second inning of the first game when a downpour flooded Ponce de Leon and washed out both games last night.

The teams will try again tonight. A double-header is scheduled. Bill Ayers and either Rene Cortes or Charley Cozart will pitch.

Vernon Curtis pitched two innings last night and had allowed one run and four hits. A sizzling Cracker double play nipped a Chick rally in the second. The combination of Hartsfield, Viers and Hughes has become slightly terrific.

GRAY AND O'NEILL.

There'll be an outstanding added attraction for the fans tonight. Pete Gray, one-armed star who plays centerfield sensationally for the Chicks, and the veteran catcher, Mickey O'Neill, his manager at Three Rivers last year, will stage an exhibition between games of the double-header.

Gray will demonstrate how he puts the glove under his short right arm and thrws to the infield without ever losing control of the ball.

He does it in a twinkling, often too fast for the eye to follow.

Gray unquestionably is one of the outstanding attractions in baseball today. And if he wasn't good he wouldn't be playing such a key position as center field.

Seldom does Gray strike out, and he hits to the outfield more often than he grounds out. He has amazing power, and more amazing is the fact that he swings a 36-ounce bat.

FIRST GAME AT 7 P. M.

Tonight's double-header, starting at 7 o'clock will be followed Thursday night—men's night—by another double-header.

Originally there was to have been only a single game on men's night, and so the rain actually proves a break for the masculine followers of the Crackers. They're to see a bargain offer—for free.

The fans were piling into the park last night—there might have been as many as 5,000 paid—even while the black clouds swept toward the park. Fans scurried from street cars to avoid the heavy drops of rain. But it was all to no avail.

The Crackers will get in only six games in the series now, but the men customers will see a double-header Thursday eve.

And that Gray-O'Neil exhibition tonight will be worth the price of admission.

4-Run Homer By Seminick Beats Barons

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 6.—(AP)—Birmingham's Merritt (Sugar) Cain walked Babe Benning in the ninth inning today to get to Andy Seminick, but the Knoxville catcher employed baseball's best strategy—a home run with the bases full—to give the Smokies a 11-8 triumph, their third straight over the Barons.

Seminick's blow came with two out and after Cain had worked the count on him to two and three. It reclaimed for the Smokies a game apparently lost when the Barons themselves came from behind in their half of the frame to take a three-run lead as the result of Chuck Aleno's double with the bases loaded.

Herb Anderson pitched the ninth inning to gain credit for his 11th win of the season and his second in two days, while Cain was charged with his second loss in two straight games.

Black Crackers Return Thursday

Atlanta's Black Crackers, who split a double-header in Macon with the powerful Jacksonville Red Caps, 4-3 and 2-1, will return home Thursday morning and start preparation for the two best series of the season.

Friday night they will play the Camp Wheeler Black Spokes in the beginning of a two-game series ending Saturday afternoon with a twilight engagement starting at 5 o'clock. The Black Crackers will tackle the strongest club of the year in the Memphis Red Sox, in a twin bill Sunday.

Manager Larry Brown, of Memphis, has made it known that he will throw the greatest pitcher in Negro baseball against the Atlanta nine in Lefty Verdell Mathis, who went 13 innings against Satchell Paige, the all-time great of Negro baseball, to win a 1-0 verdict. Mathis will pitch the first game, with "Ankle Ball" Moss going against the Black Crackers in the night-cap. It is to be the best pitching ever slated for this city in Negro baseball.

Neal Robinson who hit 52 home runs last season for Memphis will be with the invaders.

Soldiers Use Japs In Baseball 'Game'

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—(AP) United States troops in the Solomon islands turned Jap-hunting into a game like baseball, reports Private Anthony Coan Jr., just back from the south Pacific.

"We play it when we go out on patrol," he said. "Each man is given a team name such as the Phillies or the Dodgers. Each Jap killed counts as a run.

"We had lots of high-scoring games, too!"

Shift Effective After Games On Thursday

Poor Attendance Has Plagued Chattanooga Club All Season.

By NORMAN BRADLEY.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 6. (AP)—Joe Engel, president of the Chattanooga Baseball Club, a Washington Senator farm unit, said tonight that the city's Southern Association franchise had been transferred to Montgomery, Ala., effective with the close of the current series with Little Rock Thursday afternoon.

Poor attendance has plagued the local club all season and rumors have been rife that the club would be shifted to Montgomery, described as a baseball-hungry town since the lapse of the Southeastern League this year.

As late as last night, Engel told reporters he was determined to keep the franchise here if at all possible, despite the meager crowds, and attempt to awaken fan interest in the team during the winter layoff.

But tonight, Engel said that pressure—both from Clark Griffith, of Washington, on whose money the club is operating, and from other clubs of the league, which have found Chattanooga stands losing propositions all year—had forced him to acquiesce to the change.

NEW SCHEDULE READY.

For the transfer to be official, a unanimous vote of the league is necessary. However, there seemed to be little doubt the other clubs would approve the transfer, since it has become known a schedule for games for the remander of the year at Montgomery already had been made up.

The league directors are scheduled to meet in Nashville on Friday, day of the Southern's annual All-Star game.

Engel said he himself would go to the Alabama city "and run the club for the next month or so, but I'll be back and forth between Montgomery and Chattanooga."

He will retain his other business interests here which include a radio station and the operation of an annual fair. Engel also will continue to consider Chattanooga his home, he added.

Asked if the change were a temporary move, the colorful baseball executive replied:

"I hate to give up. I hope to bring the club back, but you can't tell what will happen."

DATES TO 1910.

Chattanooga has had a Southern Association club since 1910, and Montgomery was a member of the league for several years prior to 1914. Engel himself has been connected with the club since 1929.

The departure of the club brings to at least a temporary end to the baseball antics by Engel which have made the city a bright spot in the sports world.

Many and many are the tall tales told about Jumpin' Joe and the stunts he has pulled here. There was the time he staged an elephant hunt in Engel Stadium; the time he sold a player for a turkey; the idea of hanging canary cages full of the songsters all over the stadium.

Also during Engel's stay, Chattanooga's "fan-owned" club attracted a lot of attention. Shares of stock were sold to the fans themselves, giving any bleacherite who wanted to a chance to yell about "my club" with some authority.

But the idea didn't pan out any too well financially and the club went smack into the possession of Washington in 1941.

This year, Engel's antics have been most noticeable by their absence. The Barnum of baseball underwent a serious operation early in the spring and has been incapacitated to a large extent since.

Chattanooga Attendance Down to 27,775

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 6.—(AP)—Attendance at home games of the Chattanooga Lookouts this year totaled 27,775 through July 5, the club's front office announced tonight.

Comparative figures through July 5 of other years were given as follows: 1942, 42,019; 1941, 44,057; 1940, under fan ownership, 57,888; 1939, 74,546; 1932, 87,904; and 1931, 102,536.

Gomez Released By Washington

DETROIT, July 6.—(AP)—The probable end of the Major League pitching career of Vernon (Lefty) Gomez came today with his outright release by the Washington Senators.

Gomez, 32-year-old left-hander who hurled only four innings for the Senators in the six weeks since they picked him from the Boston Braves, was cut adrift right at the front door of the Detroit Tigers, who have perhaps the shortest pitching staff in the majors.

Gomez, who spent 12 years with the New York Yankees, holds the record of six victories without defeat in the World Series.

Ft. Mac Softballers Open Play Thursday

The first Federal League softball game of the season for the Fort Mac Wolverines will be played at Piedmont Park, Thursday at 7 p. m., Atlanta time, when they meet the Southern Railway girls.

Playing for the Wolverines will be: Cochran, 2b.; McNeal, ss.; Jenkins, c.; Dumont, of.-p.; Ingle, 1b.; Wischmeyer, 3b.; Whiddon, ss.; Huff, cf.; Mabry, of.; Marlowe, p.; Hord, of.; Honeycutt, of.; Askew, of., and Blair, p.-c.-infielder.

Home practice games will be booked every Tuesday by the Fort Mac team, according to their coach, Private Malcolm Combs. Any team interested can make arrangements by calling Mrs. Ruby Schroeder at Fort McPherson, extension 245, Combs announced.

LEFTY WILKIE.

NEWBURG, Ore., July 6.—(AP) Aldon (Lefty) Wilkie, former pitcher for the Pittsburgh National League club, has been ordered to report for Army service, Yamhill county draft headquarters disclosed today. The father of twins born last October, he has been employed in a Portland war industry.

ON THE LINE
With Considine.

By CASWELL ADAMS.
(Pinch-Hitting for Bob Considine.)

NEW YORK, July 6.—(INS)—I have just discovered that reasons for poverty are not restricted to dishonest parents, doctors' bills, drink, a renegade brother and dice. There is another reason, which at the moment, is plaguing me something awful. I named a two-year-old colt for Alfred Vanderbilt, and, of course, feel duty bound to bet on the steed whenever it starts in a race. The only reason we ate this week was that the youngster has only started once.

Its name is Extra Base. One night a secret agent of Vanderbilt's shoved a sheet of paper across the table. It read—"Two-year-old colt, brown. By Discovery-Balking." "Name him," said the agent, "we have to name him and send it to Fred Klees at the Jockey Club by March first or it costs $50. And make it good, 'cause it costs an extra $10^0 to change the name once it's been approved by Klees and his staff."

Discovery and Balking was a cinch. If the umpire discovers a pitcher making a balk, an extra base is awarded. Get it? It's a gift. Then the colt was forgotten about, but I felt downright glad that I'd saved Vanderbilt $50 by being so quick. What if people did think that the colt had been named after Mickey Owen and his World Series plight. I knew better.

Then the colt's name popped up in the entries at Aqueduct, and two dollars was clandestinely (which means through a bookie) was placed on his velvet snoot, and other money was bet by friends. But the colt might as well have been running out a single, rather than trying for an extra base. As he hit the turn he ran straight on, with the result that he went right into right field, over the fence, throwing Wayne Wright, who was spiked in the action, into a triple somersault. Extra Base ran right down to his stable. I am keeping a chart of my losses on this horse I named, and dread the next time I see his name in the entries. No vegetables for the kids that night.

Case of Oana

The sum of $3,500 has disappeared because the Texas League disbanded due to the wartime difficulties of getting able ball players. This is how it happened.

Henry Oana, the Hawaiian pitcher Ty Cobb dug up and who is now with the Detroit Tigers, was sold last winter to the Milwaukee Brewers by Robert Hornsby, head kick of the Fort Worth club in the Texas League. Hornsby got $500 then and there and was to get $4,500 more if and when Oana made good, in two installments. But the Milwaukee management heard that Oana had been reclassified into 1A by a heartless draft board and called off the deal and returned the Prince to Fort Worth.

(But by this time there was no Fort Worth ball club. The Texas League had folded for the duration and eventually the president of the National Association declared Oana from Oahu a free agent. And quickly the Tigers discovered that Oana had been moved back to 3-A and hired him.

Certainly the Tigers don't owe Hornsby the $4,500, and certainly the Brewers returned the guy to Fort Worth. And just as certainly Rogers is out the $4,500 which he was to get for the outfielder converted into a fair pitcher. Even the Solomon qualities of Judge Landis will be taxed to capacity. It's only money.

Ruth's Pointing Act

More about the Ruth home run off Charley Root in the 1932 World Series: Frank Menke, the sporting public library, howls: "Coming up in the fifth, Babe was met with a lot of razzing from the Chicago stands and considerable cat-calling from the Cub bench. Ruth was a bit surprised; he looked at the crowd, looked at the Cub bench, then took his bat in both hands, poked it out straight in front of him and indicated that he was going to poll the ball into the neighborhood of the center field wall. There was one out at the time.

"Root put over a strike on Ruth, and the Babe held up a finger, with mock solemnity, to let Root know that he was one up on him. Root pitched through for another strike, and Ruth, grinnnig, held up two fingers and motioned at Root. The Babe banged the next one over the wall in center field, the exact place where he had aimed his bat.

"The gesture by Ruth, and the fulfillment of his promise was, at the time, partially obscured by the fact that Gehrig, who had knocked out a homer in the third, followed Ruth in the fifth and scored another homer, and gave Root the rather fantastic World Series record of having been touched for four bases in four and one-third inning."

Arms Flow Decrease Deplored by Nelson

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Arms production failed to show any gain in May, Chairman Donald M. Nelson, of the War Production Board, disclosed today in a gravely worded report which described the slackening of the production pace as "a very serious matter."

Apparently hinting at imminent military operations on a major scale, Nelson declared in his monthly production communique: "We are on the verge of one of the greatest trials in our national history.

"We cannot afford to relax our efforts for an instant. On the contrary, we must prepare ourselves to meet calmly and steadily the greatest strains to which we may ever be subjected."

Overall war production was virtually unchanged in May over April, the WPB chief said. Gains were recorded only in aircraft, which went up 5 per cent, and in Navy and Army vessels, up 2 per cent.

In the other major programs, declines were recorded: A 3 per cent drop in tanks, artillery, anti-tank weapons and other ground ordnance; a 7 per cent setback in miscellaneous munitions, and a 4 per cent drop in merchant vessel construction.

Morocco Radio Reports Shift By Martinique

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—The Morocco radio at Rabat declared tonight in a broadcast to French territories that "Martinique has rallied to the French Committee of National Liberation."

The broadcast, reported by the Federal Communications Commission, said an officer representing the "Fighting French Forces at Santa Lucia in the Antilles" had received a message from the "deputy of Martinique" announcing the "enthusiastic rallying of Martinique to the French Committee of National Liberation and requesting the immediate designation of new authorities."

Rome Homes Project Is Approved by NHA

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—National Housing Administrator Blandford announced today approval of these programs for construction of new housing or conversion of existing structures to accommodate war workers:

Rome, Ga.—Construction, 85 privately financed family units; conversion, 20 family units under private financing and 40 under public financing.

Jackson, Tenn.—45 family accommodations through privately financed conversion.

Mrs. Robertson Succumbs at 71

Mrs. Eva Robertson, 71, of 64 Memorial drive, S. E., died yesterday of a heart attack while breakfasting with her niece, Mrs. C. D. Asbury, of 2885 Peachtree road, Northeast.

Mrs. Robertson, the former Miss Eva Lindsey, member of a pioneer Atlanta family, had lived here all her life.

Besides Mrs. Asbury, other survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Sam Bernhart, of New York city; Mrs. Lawrence Beaupied, of Detroit, Mich.; two sons, Harry Robertson, of Detroit, and Henry Robertson, of the United States Navy; two sisters, Mrs. Rhoda Lindsey and Mrs. Lizzie Cowert; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements will be annouoced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

North Georgia Conference Set For November

District Superintendents Of Cabinet Meet With Moore.

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

District superintendents composing the cabinet of counselors associated with Bishop Arthur J. Moore, president of the North Georgia Methodist annual conference, met in Atlanta yesterday with Bishop Moore and set dates for the annual conference session to be held in Atlanta in November.

Bishop Moore said the conference session this year will be held between Sundays, beginning at 4 p. m. Tuesday, November 16, and continuing through Friday night.

During recent years, there has been growing a sentiment that sessions should be held when regular Sunday appointments would not be interrupted. Bishop Moore stated that the arrangement agreed upon yesterday is not to be considered permanent.

District superintendents attending the midyear meeting were: J. H. Barton, of Athens; E. G. Mackay, of Atlanta; Wallace Rogers, of Atlanta; J. W. O. McKibben, of Augusta; C. M. Lipham, of Dalton; H. H. Jones, of Oxford; J. F. Young, of Gainesville; M. M. Maxwell, of Griffin; G. L. King, of LaGrange, and W. H. LaPrade, of Rome.

College presidents representing Wesleyan, Emory, Young Harris, Oxford, Waleska, and LaGrange, held a special meeting devoted to planning a Christian Education Advance movement.

Mrs. D. J. Jones, 86, Oconee Native, Dies

Mrs. D. J. Jones, 86, of 674 Park drive, N. E., died yesterday in a private hospital.

A native of Oconee county, Ga., she was the daughter of the late Joseph A. and Susan Elder McRee and the widow of D. J. Jones.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. W. J. Elder, of Social Circle, Ga.; Mrs. Glascock Barrett, and Miss Etta McRee.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

DIRECTS SURVEY—Lieutenant Elsye B. Jackson, of Charlotte, N. C., WAC officer, will direct a survey of Atlanta's woman power rating. (Story on Page 1.)

John C. Brown, 59, Engineer, Is Dead

John C. Brown, 59, of 1402 Sylvan road, S. W., died yesterday in a private hospital.

A resident of Atlanta since he was a young man, Brown was yard engineer for the Southern railway. He had been connected with the railroad for 30 years.

He was a member of Trinity Methodist church and also a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. tomorrow at Peachtree chapel with the Rev. Irby Henderson and the Rev. W. J. DeBardeleben officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Leroy B. Paschal Dies at Residence

Leroy Brantley (Mike) Paschal, 38, of 376 Mayson avenue, N. E., died yesterday at the residence following a long illness. He was a tax servicer and real estate agent for 10 years.

Survivors include his wife; a daughter, Grace Paschal; his mother, Mrs. Emma Hood Paschal, of Atlanta; a sister, Mrs. Ed Thomason, of Chattanooga; and four brothers, Hood M. Paschal, of Chattanooga; Harry M., W. M. A. and T. M. Paschal, of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Edgewood Baptist church, with Dr. L. A. Brown officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery under direction of Henry M. Blanchard.

Amendment Filed To Pinball Suit

Attorneys for Forrest Raymond Phillips, of Columbia, S. C., yesterday filed an amendment to his original suit against the city of Atlanta attacking the constitutionality of the city's antipinball ordinance in federal court here.

The amendment declared that Phillips, in addition to being owner of the pinball machines involved in the case, is also operator of the machines in the lunchroom operated by Jimmie Vickers, and added that he paid Vickers one-half of all the money deposited in the machines for his service in storing and supervising operation of them.

The federal suit resulted from a case made against Vickers by the city for allegedly operating the pinball machines in his lunchroom at 134 North avenue, N. W.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

You are hereby notified that an Ordinance has been introduced in the General Council of the City of Atlanta, providing for the closing and abandonment of that portion of King Street, beginning at the point on the East side of King Street, 393.05 feet North of the Northeast corner of Hunter and King Streets, thence West at right angles to King Street, 48.0 feet to the West side of King Street, which point is 386.43 feet North of the Northwest corner of King and Hunter Streets; thence North along City of Atlanta property to Georgia Railroad right-of-way; thence Easterly along said Georgia Railroad right-of-way to the East side of King Street, thence South along the East side of King Street to point of beginning, as being no longer useful or necessary for the public use and convenience.

Said Ordinance will be before the Mayor and General Council of the City of Atlanta for final passage at its regular meeting to be held on Monday, July 19, 1943.

GIVEN under my hand and seal this the 6th day of July, 1943.

J. L. RICHARDSON,
Clerk of Council.

NOTICE is hereby given that at the meeting of the Mayor and General Council of the City of Atlanta, at the City Hall in said City, at 2:00 o'clock p. m., on the 5th day of July, 1943, an Ordinance was introduced and read providing for the construction of a sewer along and in Epworth Street, from near Campbellton Road to Trunk Sewer.

The general character, material and size of said sewer are as follows: 8-inch concrete or vitrified clay pipe; 6-inch concrete or vitrified clay pipe house connections; brick manholes and flush tank with cast iron covers. Said sewer to be built at an estimated cost of $1,880.00. Said Ordinance for the construction of said sewer may be adopted at the meeting of the Mayor and General Council of said City of Atlanta to be held Monday July 19th, 1943, at 2:00 o'clock p. m., in the Council Chamber or at any subsequent meeting of said Mayor and General Council.

Said sewer is to be built in accordance with an Act amending the Charter of said City, assessing One Dollar and Fifty Cents per lineal foot upon the property and estates respectively abutting on said sewer, on each side of said sewer.

GIVEN under my hand and seal this the 6th day of July, 1943.

J. L. RICHARDSON,
Clerk of Council.

Bombardier's Slight Mistake! 'Eggs' Fall on Oklahoma Town

BOISE CITY, Okla., July 6.—(INS)—The air war over Boise City ended tonight, much to the relief of the citizenry in general and the street paving department in particular.

It started early today when heavy bombers of the U. S. Army Air Forces dropped their loads onto this community of 1,000 population.

It was all a "mistake," said officials of the Army Air Base at Dalhart, Texas.

"It was just like an enemy bombing, and believe me, we were all pretty scared," said Deputy Sheriff S. C. Ricks.

Five craters were gouged out in the heart of town. Three bombs fell within half a block of the courthouse square. One hit a private garage, another plopped into a lot and a third fell 100 feet away from the Baptist church, shattering two windows.

No injuries were reported, except to the pride of a certain unnamed bombardier.

Army officials told Ricks the bombers were heading to a bombing range 30 miles west of the city. The bombardier on one plane, it was said, mistook the courthouse square for the target on the range, and let go.

Leaders Are Installed By D. A. V. Chapter

Methodist Stewards Hold Decatur Parley

More than 400 people attended the third quarterly meeting of the Atlanta Methodist Stewards' Association last night at the Children's Home in Decatur, Henry B. Mays, superintendent of the home estimated.

Bishop Arthur J. Moore made an inspirational talk. A meeting of the board of trustees of the home also was held.

Fatal Auto Accident Charges Dismissed

Charges made against Corporal J. O. Dildy, of Fort Benning, in connection with a Sunday night automobile accident, near Fort McPherson, on Lee street, in which Willard R. Freeman, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was killed, were dismissed yesterday.

Judge Luke Arnold, of traffic court, heard the case.

Big Apartment Sold in Marietta

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MARIETTA, Ga., July 6.—In preparation for doubling its number of dwelling units for war workers in and near Marietta, the federal government leased for seven years a large apartment in Marietta today, just after it had been sold to Robert P. McLarty, of Atlanta, by P. B. Latimer, of Marietta. The sale was negotiated by Robert M. Holder, of Redd, Holder & Baldwin, Atlanta real estate firm.

The big apartment structure was sold for $40,000 cash. Approximately $25,000 will be spent through the HOLC in converting the present five and six-room units into smaller units, making about 20 units in all.
